This 'Wagon' Is Welcome

By JIM STEVENSON
Star Staff Writer

First you hear the tinkling of the bell far down the street. Then comes the rush of children toward the curbing. And finally, the white jeep with the striped awning comes pulling up with its cargo of ice cream.

The days of the Good Humor men in their white trucks full of ice cream may be gone, but Lincoln residents can still obtain cool refreshment on a summer afternoon from the "Delight's Special."

Nowadays though, you're more likely to walk away with a "bomb" popsicle or a "monster" bar than a good old fashioned ice cream cone, but it's all cold, and it hits the spot on a hot summer day.

More Than Cool Refreshment

For Dennis Danek of 2611 A, it's more than cool refreshment, it's a summer job. He and seven other Lincoln boys drive around Lincoln in the white jeeps full of ice cream, peddling it as they go. "It's mostly just kids I sell to," Dennis said. "But if there are enough of them, it turns out okay."

He pointed out that he often has traveled around 50 miles during the course of one run. "Most of the time, though, I only do about two miles per hour, ringing the bell as I go," he said.

Dennis, who will be a senior at Pius X High School next year, works for the Delight Ice Cream Co. which runs jeeps in Omaha, Kansas City, and Lincoln, as well as a van which travels to Beatrice daily.

The jeep drivers buy the ice cream wholesale and sell it retail on their routes. Their return is roughly one-fourth of their sales.

It Must Take Will Power

"The most money I've ever heard of a jeep driver making in one day was 25 dollars," Dennis said. "That's about 100 dollars worth of ice cream."

But for those who may decide to turn to this lucrative profession, there's a sobering thought. Think of the will-power it must take to refrain from eating your profits on a hot day!

FRANCE SEEKS WAY OUT

Tension Labeled Vicious

... By De Gaulle

Moscow (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle told his Soviet hosts Monday night that France wants to find a "way out of this vicious circle" of East-West confrontation.

Beginning an 11-day state visit to the Soviet Union, De Gaulle declared at a Kremlin banquet that France seeks to "begin establishing new relations pursuing the aim of détente, accord and cooperation with the so-called East European states."

Onward

France and the Soviet Union should go ahead, without waiting for the rest of Europe to settle its problems, to reach agreement between themselves, the French leader said.

De Gaulle and Soviet President Nikolai S. Podgorniy suggested in the first day's speeches that the visit could lead to joint French-Soviet initiatives on European security and the war in Viet Nam.

In his dinner speech, De Gaulle said it is up to France and Russia to start trying to solve European problems, particularly Germany.

Role of U.S.

"Without ignoring the essential role that the United States has to play" in the world, De Gaulle said, France thinks that the first condition for world progress "is the re-establishment in Europe of fertile unity instead of having Europe paralyzed by sterile division."

A big welcoming crowd shouted "friendship" as De Gaulle arrived at the airport. He was greeted by Podgorniy and Premier Alexei Kosygin. Then the French and Russians in a cavalcade were met by thousands waving French and Soviet flags in the 25-mile ride into the city.

Welcome banners floated overhead. Thus the most important visit to the Soviet Union of a Western leader in many years opened with the prospect that France, the dissident member of the Western alliance, was seeking a new status in Kremlin thinking.

Results

French officials have said the 11-day trip will not include the signing of any alliance or treaty, except possibly on scientific and cultural matters. But diplomats noted that similar assurances were given when De Gaulle visited West Germany in 1962. A few months later Paris and Bonn formed a little alliance within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

It has since broken down over De Gaulle's determination to pursue his own policies. De Gaulle and his wife stepped into bright sunshine here to begin a tour of five Soviet cities. A sixth, so far unannounced, stop might make him the first foreign leader to see a Soviet rocket launching.

De Gaulle Reply To Bonn Letter 'Very Positive'

Bonn, Germany (AP) — Charles de Gaulle has replied to a letter from Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, who is believed to have asked the French president to put in a good word for German reunification on his visit to the Soviet Union.

Chief government spokesman Karl-Guenther von Hase told a news conference Monday Erhard had received the letter Saturday.

"I'm not in a position to disclose details but the letter was very positively received," Von Hase said.

Commenting on De Gaulle's Soviet visit, Willy Brandt, mayor of West Berlin and leader of the opposition Social-Democratic Party, said he hoped it would have "good effects for Europe and for peace."

Bomber Kills 8 Aground

Hampton, Va. (AP) — A Marine Corps attack bomber crashed in flames in a residential area in the vacation suburb of Buckroe Beach here Monday night after colliding with another Marine jet.

Hampton police said eight persons were killed and 45 others injured, some seriously, as the plane cut a swath through the area of modest two-bedroom, frame homes. Seventeen homes were demolished or damaged.

The second plane landed in the Chesapeake Bay. All the dead were occupants of houses in the development several blocks from the Fordham Shopping Center about 2½ miles from the Chesapeake Bay shore.

Bailed Out The military planes, both A6 Intruders, were flying low on a training mission when they collided over the shopping center. Each carried a pilot and a bombardier-navigator. All four Marines bailed out and were rescued.

At the devastated residential area the search for other bodies still was going on hours after the crash.

There was a tremendous explosion as one of the aircraft thundered to earth in the residential area, apparently disintegrating as it fell. The nose of the bomber buried itself in a home, carving out a large crater. Bits and pieces were scattered over the area.

Injured Three A wheel plummeted through the roof of a bowling alley and injured three persons inside.

Flames shot upward from the development and heavy smoke billowed into the clear night sky visible 15 miles away at Newport News.

Nearly all the homes in the modest, lower middle class neighborhood are one-story frame affairs and they burned like tinder.

The plane came in between two houses, rammed a garage, bounced into other homes and exploded.

Some of the houses were knocked from their foundations. In one spot, half a home was left standing grotesquely amid the splintered, burning wreckage. It had been split from front to back, evenly. Inside, a kitchen stove and a sink sat exposed.

The stench of charred, wet wood filled the night air. Kept from the area by barricades thrown up by police and firemen, little groups of people stood along the streets and on corners. Some were silent. Others talked in subdued tones.

CITY TO SIZZLE AS SUMMER STARTS

Summer will start at 2:35 p.m. Tuesday with summertime weather likely. Predicted highs for the day are about 95 degrees. Partly cloudy skies with chances of scattered thundershowers and breezes from the south should combine to make it one of those long days of summer. Sunset is at 8:02.

King Decries 'Black Power' Talk

Atlanta (UPI) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. appealed Monday for an end to talk of "black power" among some Negro leaders.

"It is absolutely necessary for the Negro to gain power, but the term 'black power' is unfortunate because it tends to give the impression of black nationalism," King said in an interview shortly before he rejoined the Mississippi freedom march.

King made his statement the day after Negroes taking part in the march chanted "black power, black power" as they entered Belzoni, Miss. SNCC, Meredith

It also came a day after Stokely Carmichael, newly-elected head of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, and James Meredith, whose shooting turned the Mississippi march into a mass effort, both told national television audiences that nonviolence does not go far enough to solve racial problems.

"We must never seek power exclusively for the Negro but the sharing of power with the white people," King said. "Any other course is exchanging one form of tyranny for another Black supremacy would be equally as evil as white supremacy."

The Atlanta Negro leader, who helped pick up the reins of the Mississippi march after the wounding of Meredith, spoke of "grave consequences" should his own non-violent approach to the civil rights program be discarded. King emphasized that he does not want to increase speculation that there has been a major rift among the civil rights organizations on the subject of tactics and strategy.

The implication was clear, however, that King was seriously disturbed by the growing militancy of some racial groups, including the Mississippi marchers.

Mississippi Marchers Camp, May Travel To Philadelphia

Louis, Miss. (AP) — The Mississippi marchers pitched their tents on the hardpacked ground of a hog lot late Monday after stepping off 17½ miles — their longest day's trek thus far.

"I'm used to having company but I ain't never had this much company before," said H. L. Montgomery, a Negro who let the marchers use his farm near Louis as a campsite.

A small band had planned to peel off Monday night from the main group for an 85-mile auto trip to Philadelphia.

Miss. But their plans changed from definite to indefinite as night fell.

The marchers wanted to mark Tuesday's second anniversary of the slayings of three young civil rights workers at Philadelphia.

"We will go to Philadelphia for a rally tonight if we can get enough cars," said Herb Callender, director of organization for the march. As he spoke, he looked at a car with two flat tires and shook his head. Callender, a Negro, is from New York and works with the Congress of Racial Equality.

Poverty Requests Set

... HEAD START, SCHOOL, LEGAL AID

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Priorities for Lincoln anti-poverty federal funds apparently are slated toward basic education, Head Start and legal services, Lincoln Action Program Director Art May announced here Monday night.

The Lincoln Action Program, the city's poverty program coordinating agency, will "look at the priorities in terms of specific programs submitted," May and board President Howard Barlow emphasized.

The three programs May selected — although not at the top of any of the surveys taken on programs relating to children and youth, adults and senior citizens — are those which seem to be the most practical for which to request federal financing.

Forwarded to OEO Possible programs to meet the needs listed high in the priority survey will be written and submitted to the Lincoln Action Program for consideration before July 15, to be forwarded to the Office of Economic Opportunity, May said.

Although Lincoln's appropriation for next year will not be announced by then, the LAP board intends to "submit sufficient proposals" to use all of an anticipated allotment with priorities for federal funding determined upon application, he added.

A program providing free basic education to adults in the low-income level is currently being sponsored by the Lincoln Public Schools. In the project, 100 persons are taking courses to receive an eighth grade education. The Lincoln schools also operate a year-round Head Start program for 150 culturally deprived pre-school children from low-income families.

210 Children Mrs. Anne Campbell, administrative assistant for government services presented a proposal to the LAP board of directors Monday for extending the program another year, expanding the project to include staff and services for 210 children.

The total program would run $211,271.59, compared with the present project of $85,897.75 for seven months.

A total of $178,122.42 in federal funds would be required for the 11-month proposal. Total non-federal funds needed for next year would amount to $33,149.17.

The more expensive program also reflected the inclusion of several costs sustained by the school district last year, Mrs. Campbell pointed out, in addition to the need for added services such as a food supervisor.

A Lincoln legal service society proposal also was presented to the LAP board by the Lincoln Bar Association, represented by Robert S. Calkins. The program would provide legal aid, services and counsel to low-income persons by at least one full-time attorney.

Approximately $26,000 in federal funds would be sought for the legal aid society through the Lincoln Action Program.

Housing seemed to be the highest priority among programs for adults and senior citizens according to results of the survey answered by nearly 1,000 persons in the poverty program's target areas in the city.

However, May emphasized that LAP money could not be spent on housing although considerable staff time could be devoted to the problem in urging that other agencies help with the problem.

Liquor Control Question Dominates Council; 2 Bottle Club Pleas Denied

By BOB SCHREFF
Star Staff Writer

The question of liquor control was a paramount issue confronting the City Council again Monday, with the council recommending denial of two bottle club license applications and passing an ordinance requiring separate access to adjoining taverns and bottle clubs.

The council also indicated it might again overhaul its policy governing bottle clubs and package liquor and on-and-off-sale beer licenses. A revised policy resolution was adopted only last year.

Council turmoil over its relative lack of control over the license situation, plus a tendency by the State Liquor Control Commission to overrule recent council recommendations, prompted Mayor Dean Petersen to comment, "The dispensing of liquor not only in Lincoln, but in the whole state, is such a high-powered, hypocritical thing that there is no way to make it defensible."

Councilman Lloyd Hinkley cast doubts on the council's ability to control the location of outlets, including bottle clubs, in the city's outlying areas.

'Should Back Out' "We should back out completely, we have no effect at all and we just look silly in the process. Making no recommendation at all is better," said Hinkley.

However, Council member Mrs. Helen Boosalis asked that city departments compile a list of existing liquor, beer and bottle club licenses and the zoning categories in which each is located, "then proceed with the possibility of changing our policy."

Councilmen John Crompton and John Mason also suggested that a future change in the council's liquor policy might hinge on zoning. It was suggested that liquor, beer and bottle club licenses be prohibited as a use in local business districts, as an example.

Alternate zoning classifications were not discussed.

The council recommended denial of the application of Frances E. McLaughlin for a bottle club license at 1436 O. She had proposed to operate a bottle club in a separate rear portion of the Brass Rail tavern at the same location.

The recommendation was made in view of the ordinance passed Monday which provides that a retail beer license and a bottle club shall be located in "premises that are separate and distinct," with separate access.

"The premises will not be deemed to be separate and distinct if access to the bottle club can be had only by going into or through the retail beer license," the ordinance states.

The McLaughlin application proposed a closed corridor leading from the tavern to a separate door for the bottle club operation, but not separate outside entrances.

Police Chief Joe Carroll told the council that the McLaughlin application represented "a new precedent," and asked that the ordinance be approved for enforcement reasons.

"For instance, if we pick up a drunk in either licensed premises, and there are not separate entrances, we would have trouble determining which licensee is guilty of the violation. We think that separate, on-street entrances will make supervision easier," Carroll said.

Limit Suggested

He also suggested that the council set a limit on the number of bottle clubs it would approve.

The council has set no limit on bottle clubs as it has on package liquor and retail beer licenses, and the city had no prior regulations concerning adjacent bottle clubs and taverns.

In asking for approval of the ordinance, Mayor Petersen said, "We need to make a prime decision — whether or not we want liquor by the drink in a beer tavern, because that's what we would have."

The council also recommended denial of an application for a bottle club license by the Cavern Club, Inc., at 2110 Winthrop Road, in the basement of the Sunnybrook South Restaurant.

The location is not within an area approved by the council for a bottle club license.

Confession Ruling Is Not Retroactive

Washington (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled 5 to 4 Monday that only in limited instances may prosecutions of civil rights workers in the Deep South be removed from state to federal courts.

And, in its last session of the 1965-66 term, the court barred retroactive application of its historic June 13 decision narrowing use of confessions at trials. This was a 7-2 ruling.

The removal decision, announced by Justice Potter Stewart, is a setback for civil rights forces. He said for the majority:

"First, no federal law confers an absolute right on private citizens—on civil rights advocates, on Negroes, or on anybody else—to obstruct a public street, to contribute to the delinquency of a minor, to drive an automobile without a license, or to bite a policeman.

No Immunity

"Second, no federal law confers immunity from state prosecution on such charges."

However, in a companion decision, the court said unanimously that if equal access to public accommodations—a right assured by the 1964 federal civil rights law—is involved there cannot be any prosecution—either in federal or state court.

The confession decision, written by Chief Justice Earl Warren, drew two lines.

It said the high court's landmark 1964 Escobedo ruling, which for the first time extended the right to counsel to suspects undergoing police questioning, "affects only those cases in which the trial began" after the ruling was announced.

Similarly, it said June 13's Miranda ruling, which barred trial use of incriminating statements obtained from suspects whose constitutional rights to remain silent and have a lawyer's assistance were not safeguarded by police, "applies only to cases in which the trial began" after the ruling was announced.

Would Upset Things

"Retroactive application of Escobedo and Miranda would seriously disrupt the administration of our criminal laws," Warren wrote.

"It would require the retrial or release of numerous prisoners found guilty by trustworthy evidence in conformity with previously announced constitutional standards."

Warren and Justice William O. Douglas did not attend the closing session. The chief justice was absent because of the death last Friday of his sister, Mrs. Vernon Plank of Oakland, Calif. Douglas left last week for his summer home at Goose Prairie, Wash.

In other significant actions before adjourning until next Oct. 3 the high tribunal:

—Granted a hearing next term to Julian Bond, a critic of U.S. policy in Viet Nam, who has been barred twice by the Georgia House from taking the seat to which he was elected.

—Ruled 5 to 4 that Los Angeles police did not violate the constitutional rights of Armando Schuerber when they took a blood sample over his objection to prove drunk driving.

—Agreed to hear an appeal that questions the constitutionality of a New York law designed to eliminate from the state's school system teachers who advocate overthrow of government by violence. The high tribunal will hear arguments in its new term next fall.

Fugate, Parker Hopes For New Trial Dimmer

The new trial hopes of Carol Ann Fugate and Darrel F. Parker, imprisoned for celebrated murder convictions, were dimmed but not crushed by the U.S. Supreme Court's decision that its new rules on confessions are not retroactive, the inmates' attorneys said Monday.

Miss Fugate's attorney, John McArthur of Lincoln, and Parker's attorney, Richard J. Bruckner of Omaha, had both contended before the State Supreme Court that the U.S. court's Escobedo ruling should apply retroactively to their cases.

In 1964, the high tribunal laid down the so-called Escobedo doctrine that a suspect is entitled to an attorney when the case moves from the investigatory to the accusatory stage.

Monday's ruling barred the application of that doctrine to any trial which commenced before June 22, 1964, including the Fugate and Parker trials.

"Naturally, it hurts us because it obliterates that particular feature of our argument," said McArthur, "but there are definitely other features of our argument which remain valid."

Bruckner said he believes Parker's chances for a new trial also remain alive.

Decisions Expected
The State Supreme Court currently has under advisement the new trial bids, of both inmates which were filed under the 1965 Nebraska post-conviction law. Decisions are expected soon.

Miss Fugate, 22, is serving a life term in the York Women's Reformatory for her part in a 1958 killing spree for which her ex-boy friend, Charles Starkweather, was executed. To him were attributed 11 slayings.

Parker, a former Lincoln city fosterer, is serving a life term for the 1955 strangulation slaying of his wife.

McArthur said a long-standing rule requiring authorities to be "more fair" with young people in interrogations applies to the Fugate case since she was only 14 years old at the time of her arrest.

He said a confession used against her was not voluntary.

Was Coerced

Bruckner said Parker's confession was also coerced and "the courts have always thrown out such confessions."

"Regardless of Escobedo, we still have a valid argument," he said.

Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer declined to comment on the retroactivity ruling because of the cases pending before the state court.

Lancaster County Atty. Paul Douglas said it would have been "unfair" for the court to rule the new guidelines retroactive.

A retroactive application would have required new trials for persons who were convicted as long as 20 years ago, he said.

"I have always said and maintained that if the Supreme Court will tell us what rules they want us to follow, we will follow those rules and see to it that local enforcement officers follow the rules," he said. "We will be able to try our cases in line with the rules."

House Passes Bill Aimed At Secrecy

Washington (AP) — The House gave final congressional approval Monday to landmark freedom-of-information legislation making it easier for Americans to examine the records of the federal government.

A unanimous 307-0 vote sent to President Johnson the measure establishing a basic policy that records of federal executive agencies shall be available to the public unless specific reasons exist for maintaining secrecy.

Sponsors predicted the President will sign the measure, despite efforts of some federal agencies to block it. The law would take effect in one year, and would apply to all executive branch agencies but not to state and local governments or to Congress which conducts much of its business in secrecy.

Secrecy Stripped
Among the areas in which official secrecy would be stripped away are names and salaries of federal employees, the details on millions of dollars of nonsecurity federal contracts and the details of important regulatory actions ranging from the Federal Trade Commission to the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors.

Basically, the bill replaces the vague language in existing government information statutes with specific grounds under which information can be withheld. And it permits persons denied information to seek federal court action to force its disclosure.

The House accepted the bill passed last Oct. 13 by the Senate.

The legislation is the product of more than a decade's effort by Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., and others to overhaul information policies of the executive branch.

Sponsored By Long

The legislation approved Monday was sponsored in the Senate by Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., whose predecessor, the late Sen. Thomas C. Hennings, D-Mo., backed similar legislation in the 1950s.

This legislation, Moss told the House, "will not only correct inequities which have developed over the past 20 years but also will establish a governmental program to prepare for the wave of the future."

"Let me emphasize today," Moss continued, "that the government information problem did not start with President Lyndon Johnson. I hope, with his cooperation following our action here today, that they will be diminished."

Copied Files Used By Dodd's Probers

Washington (AP) — The Senate Ethics Committee, starting hearings on misconduct charges against Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., first ruled out copies of documents taken from his files but later disclosed that they are being used in the probe.

At the end of a day-long, closed hearing, Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., said his opening statement about not using as evidence copies of over 4,000 documents removed from Dodd's office required "certain clarification."

In his original statement he said the bipartisan committee felt the copies of the documents were "sufficiently stigmatized so as to preclude their use as evidence here."

Committee's Duty

Stennis told newsmen later that since the committee regarded the admissibility of these copies as at least questionable, it considered that it had a duty to secure "all documents and facts obtainable" independently.

"This is what we are doing," he said, but added, "if the original documents obtained are at variance, or do not include all documents taken from Sen. Dodd's office with respect to the matters before the committee, the committee will inquire into such variance."

Stennis said that after screening the copies it obtained, the committee asked Dodd to furnish it with the originals of all the documents it felt were material to its investigation.

None So Far

Dodd has done so, Stennis said, adding that so far no variance has been found in the originals and the copies of the documents that were removed from Dodd's files.

The only witness heard by the committee Monday was James P. Boyd Jr., 37-year-old former administrative assistant to Dodd. Boyd freely acknowledged to newsmen he had participated in removing and copying the documents over a long period both before and after his dismissal by Dodd.

He said he had turned copies over to newsmen Jack Anderson, an associate of syndicated columnist Drew Pearson. Boyd said the copies were made outside Dodd's office and the originals returned to the files.

The copied documents figured in a series of columns in which Pearson and Anderson charged Dodd with misconduct.

Julius Klein

Stennis said the committee's initial hearings would deal with Dodd's relationship with Julius Klein, owner of a Chicago public relations firm and a registered agent for West German business interests.

Stennis said "a critical element" in this relationship is a trip Dodd made to West Germany in April 1964.

In his libel suit against Pearson and Anderson, Dodd said he made the trip for the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee to investigate murder and kidnapping as instruments of Soviet policy.

The columnists had written that Dodd made the trip to help Klein retain his West German clients after Klein had figured in a Senate Foreign Relations Committee investigation of the activities of foreign agents.

Wheat Deal History's Biggest

Moscow (AP) — The Soviet Union has made history's largest wheat purchases from Canada, indicating that efforts to improve Soviet agriculture are expected to be slow.

The purchase of 9 million long tons of wheat and flour — about 336 million bushels over the next 3 years at a cost of 800 million — was announced here Monday. It means Russia will be importing wheat annually for at least 7 years.

Before 1963 the Soviet Union exported wheat. But beginning with a disastrous crop failure that year, it has become dependent upon Western countries — especially Canada — for some of the bread that is the main item in the diets of Russians.

Some wheat came from the United States in 1964 when Russia imported about 37 million bushels. The cost was $78.5 million.

Wheat purchases have cut severely into the scarce Soviet supply of gold and foreign currency. It has forced the curtailment of some imports of much-desired foreign industrial equipment.

The new purchase will continue this burden on the Soviet trade position, probably hampering the carrying out of some trade agreements with other countries.

The new contract with Canada was signed here Sunday.

The contract brings total Soviet wheat purchases from Canada since 1963 to 848 million bushels, costing $1.8 billion.

The new purchases from Canada appeared to mean that two factors were worrying the Kremlin:

—The prospects of this year's wheat crop, while believed to be fairly good, are probably not so magnificent that a bumper harvest can be expected.

—Consumption is increasing both because of the rising population and because the Soviet people are being promised better living, which includes better diets. Wheat flour has been almost unobtainable in stores here most of the time since 1963.

Extreme Monk Taken From Hospital

Saigon (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's troops took the extremist Buddhist leader, Thich Tri Quang, out of his hospital room in Hue Tuesday on the 14th day of an anti-government, anti-American hunger strike.

A police officer said the monk was under protective custody. Reports circulated in Saigon that the leader of the Buddhist struggle movement was being brought to the capital.

The soldiers escorted Tri

Quang out of the Hue Municipal Hospital after embattled Buddhist leaders in Saigon appealed to the International Red Cross for help, claiming that a critical health situation existed in the Saigon pagoda compound where Ky's forces had bottled them up.

They claimed that one Buddhist had caught cholera, but the government said a hospital examination showed no such symptoms.

The government had put Tri Quang under virtual house arrest Monday.

While maintaining its firm pressures on the weakening Buddhist pagoda.

Buddhist opposition movement, the government announced formally its plans for national elections in the fall and made official its intention to stay in power well into 1967.

It also eased its curfew on Vietnamese in Saigon, and U.S. military authorities followed suit and relaxed restrictions on U.S. servicemen in the capital.

The monks claimed in their message to the Red Cross in Geneva that 1,500 adults and 400 refugee children were jammed into the compound surrounding Saigon's main Buddhist pagoda.

'Duke' Unfazed By Red Sniper

Chu Lai, South Viet Nam (UPI)—Movie he-man John (Duke) Wayne nonchalantly continued signing autographs for U.S. Marines Monday despite rifle fire from a communist sniper which kicked up sand 10 yards away from where he stood.

"Hell, I didn't even know we were being fired at until I saw the Marines running for cover," said Wayne, who never before had come under fire in his off-screen life.

The sniper fired five shots, scattering some of the Marines who had gathered around the actor. Wayne turned and watched the Leathernicks go after the sniper and then went back to signing autographs on helmets.

Wayne, on a 17-day tour of U.S. troop posts in South Viet Nam, said, "I'm proud to be over here with these kids. . . . They're all great."

Thant Pushes 3 Points Again

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary-General U Thant pleaded publicly again Monday for all sides in the war in Viet Nam to accept his familiar three-point plan as the path to peace there. He said that was the only way to create conditions for a settlement.

Thant told U.N. correspondents the Vietnamese war was "one of the most barbarous wars in history" and the sooner it was ended the better for Viet Nam and the world.

He has been pushing his three points since February. As he phrased them Monday, they are:

"Firstly, the cessation of the (U.S.) bombing of North Viet Nam.

"Secondly, the scaling down of all military operations in South Viet Nam, which alone could lead to a cease-fire.

"Thirdly, the willingness of all sides to enter into discussions with those who are actually fighting."

Wheat Shows Improvement Since Rains

... Normal Harvest Time Expected

Nebraska's winter wheat crop, shaky until rains began to arrive two weeks ago, is doing much better now, government crop observers confirmed Monday.

"Moisture and temperature conditions have been ideal for the filling of kernels and the outlook for the crop has shown considerable improvement since the rains," according to the weekly crop report of the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

Almost all of the wheat crop has headed and about 52% of the crop has turned color, with some approaching maturity in the southeast part of the state, the division said.

Harvest will come at about the normal time, starting the last week in June in the southeast and advancing toward the west at later dates.

Other crops, too, including corn and sorghum, are starting to respond to the improved moisture conditions and higher temperatures.

Frank Kealy, Spanish War Veteran, Dies

Hastings (AP) — Frank Kealy, 86, a well known business man and civic leader, died in a Hastings hospital Sunday after a brief illness.

Mr. Kealy operated the Kealy Construction Company in Hastings for 56 years, was a former member of the Hastings Housing Authority and a former department commander of the Spanish American War Veterans. He served with Company K of the 3rd Nebraska Volunteers, serving in Cuba during the Spanish-American War.

A native of Westside, Iowa, he came to Hastings with his parents 80 years ago.

Survivors include three sons and eight daughters: Msgr. Thomas Kealy, vicar general of the Catholic Diocese of Lincoln; the Rev. Daniel Kealy of St. John's parish in Lincoln; Mrs. J. J. Maher, Omaha; Miss Loretta Kealy, New York City; Mrs. Ralph York, Los Angeles; Mrs. R. C. McMurray, Coeur d'Alene, Idaho; Richard W. Kealy, Mrs. Ralph Miller, Mrs. D. B. Foote, Mrs. Richard Sheehy and Miss Josephine Kealy, all of Hastings.

Funeral services will be Tuesday at St. Cecilia Church in Hastings with Msgr. Kealy, Father Daniel Kealy and the Rev. Fr. Rawley Myers of York participating. Bishop James V. Casey of Lincoln will give the final blessing.

Airman's Body Recovered From Louisville Lake

The body of Eric Brinker, 20, who had been swimming in the State Lakes at Louisville, has been recovered, Cass County Sheriff Fred Tesch reported Monday.

A3c Brinker, attached to the 818 transportation Squadron at Lincoln Air Force Base, apparently drowned while swimming in the lakes Sunday, Sheriff Tesch said.

The body was recovered Monday at 9 a.m., about 20 feet from the shoreline.

The airman had gone to Louisville Sunday with a friend, who left him to attend the motorcycle races, and was not missed until late in the day.

Authorities at LAFB and the Cass County sheriff's office investigated the drowning.

The Air Force listed the next of kin as John Brinker of Cincinnati.

FLB Loan Statement Expected

An announcement concerning interest loan rates on Federal Land Bank loans will be made Tuesday by Tom Maxwell of Omaha, president of the Federal Land Bank for the district covering Nebraska, Wyoming, Iowa and South Dakota.

Directors and officers of the Farm Credit Banks of Omaha are attending a three day meeting of the FEB system at the Nebraska Center.

Speculation has centered on the possibility that the 5 1/2% interest rate on FLB loans will be increased to 6% on new loans made by the FLB.

Monday evening the directors and officers of the Farm Credit Banks of Omaha entertained University of Nebraska administrators and faculty and agricultural leaders at a banquet were a premiere showing of two films "An A for the BC Way" and "Credit to Grow On."

Ralph Raikes of Ashland, an FCB director, noted that the FCB of Omaha has $980 million in loans and will pass the $1 billion mark in about two months.

The FCB of Omaha will celebrate a golden anniversary in 1967 and loans made by the bank have been doubling at the rate of once each four years, officials noted.

Jaycees Log Overnight Stop

Members of the Jaycees, traveling from Philomath, Ore., are trucking with them a huge Douglas fir log to promote the national convention in Detroit, Mich., their destination.

The log, weighing 25 tons, 36 feet in length, and 73 inches in diameter at the small end, contains 9,142 board feet.

The group made an overnight stop in Lincoln Monday night.

THE WEATHER

Summary of Conditions
The two-state area is the scene of a weak pressure area with strong, warm southerly winds blowing through it. A cold front is located to the west with a warm front to the north. The cold front will move eastward, meeting the warm front and causing showers and thunderstorms in central and western Nebraska. Temperatures will continue quite warm with considerable cooling behind the cold front. Skies will continue mostly sunny with partly cloudy to cloudy aches expected behind the cold front.

Wheat Shows Improvement Since Rains

... Normal Harvest Time Expected

Nebraska's winter wheat crop, shaky until rains began to arrive two weeks ago, is doing much better now, government crop observers confirmed Monday.

"Moisture and temperature conditions have been ideal for the filling of kernels and the outlook for the crop has shown considerable improvement since the rains," according to the weekly crop report of the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

Almost all of the wheat crop has headed and about 52% of the crop has turned color, with some approaching maturity in the southeast part of the state, the division said.

Harvest will come at about the normal time, starting the last week in June in the southeast and advancing toward the west at later dates.

Other crops, too, including corn and sorghum, are starting to respond to the improved moisture conditions and higher temperatures.

Frank Kealy, Spanish War Veteran, Dies

Hastings (P) — Frank Kealy, 86, a well known business man and civic leader, died in a Hastings hospital Sunday after a brief illness.

Mr. Kealy operated the Kealy Construction Company in Hastings for 56 years, was a former member of the Hastings

Hastings Authority and a former department commander of the Spanish American War Veterans. He served with Company K of the 3rd Nebraska Volunteers, serving in Cuba during the Spanish-American War.

A native of Westside, Iowa, he came to Hastings with his parents 80 years ago.

Survivors include three sons and eight daughters: Msgr. Thomas Kealy, vicar general of the Catholic Diocese of Lincoln; the Rev. Daniel Kealy of St. John's parish in Lincoln; Mrs. J. J. Maher, Omaha; Miss Loreta Kealy, New York City; Mrs. Ralph Worden, Los Angeles; Mrs. R. C. McMurray, Coeur d'Alene, Idaho; Richard W. Kealy, Mrs. Ralph Miller, Mrs. D. B. Foote, Mrs. Richard Sheehy and Miss Josephine Kealy, all of Hastings.

Funeral services will be Tuesday at St. Cecilia Church in Hastings with Msgr. Kealy, Father Daniel Kealy and the Rev. Fr. Rawley Myers of York participating. Bishop J. V. Casey of Lincoln will give the final blessing.

Airman's Body Recovered From Louisville Lake

The body of Eric Brinker, 20, who had been swimming in the State Lakes at Louisville, has been recovered, Cass County Sheriff Fred Tesch reported Monday.

A3c Brinker, attached to the 818 transportation Squadron at Lincoln Air Force Base, apparently drowned while swimming in the lakes Sunday, Sheriff Tesch said.

The body was recovered Monday at 9 a.m., about 20 feet from the shoreline.

The airman had gone to Louisville Sunday with a friend, who left him to attend the motorcycle races, and was not missed until late in the day.

Authorities at LAFB and the Cass County sheriff's office investigated the drowning.

The Air Force listed the next of kin as John Brinker of Cincinnati.

FLB Loan Statement Expected

An announcement concerning interest loan rates on Federal Land Bank loans will be made Tuesday by Tom Maxwell of Omaha, president of the Federal Land Bank for the district covering Nebraska, Wyoming, Iowa and South Dakota.

Directors and officers of the Farm Credit Banks of Omaha are attending a three day meeting of the FEB system at the Nebraska Center.

Speculation has centered on the possibility that the 5 1/2% interest rate on FLB loans will be increased to 6% on new loans made by the FLB.

Monday evening the directors and officers of the Farm Credit Banks of Omaha entertained University of Nebraska administrators and faculty and agricultural leaders at a banquet were a premiere showing of two films "An A for the BC Way" and "Credit to Grow On."

Ralph Raikes of Ashland, an FCB director, noted that the FCB of Omaha has $980 million in loans and will pass the $1 billion mark in about two months.

The FCB of Omaha will celebrate a golden anniversary in 1967 and loans made by the bank have been doubling at the rate of once each four years, officials noted.

Jaycees Log Overnight Stop

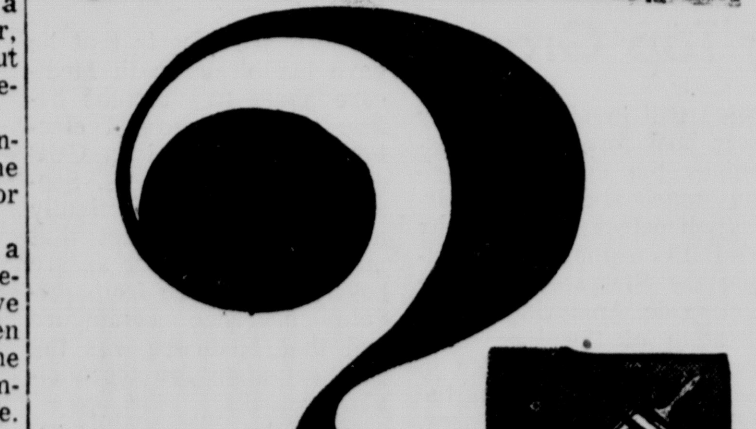

Members of the Jaycees, traveling from Philomath, Ore., are trucking with them a huge Douglas fir log to promote the national convention in Detroit, Mich., their destination.

The log, weighing 25 tons, 36 feet in length, and 73 inches in diameter at the small end, contains 9,142 board feet. The group made an overnight stop in Lincoln Monday night.

LOYALTY TO CARDINAL

Archbishop Boleslaw Kominek of Wroclaw, Poland, leads a procession at Frombork on the Baltic Sea coast. He told a large congregation, "Pope Paul VI and all the world appreciate and have confidence in the primate of Poland." By so saying, he affirmed his loyalty to the Roman Catholic primate, Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, and rejected the Communist government's attempt to build him up as a rival to the cardinal.

Mrs. Geiger Going Back To Sheldon When Parole Starts

Washburn (UPI) — Mrs. Burnice Iverson Geiger, who shocked her home town of Sheldon, Iowa, with a $2 million embezzlement from her father's bank in 1961, will return to Sheldon when she is paroled July 1, it was learned Monday.

A spokesman in the U.S. Justice Department in Washington told United Press International that Mrs. Geiger, 63, would "definitely" return to Sheldon, a small community of about 4,250 in northwest Iowa.

She may receive a mixed reception upon returning to the community where she worked for 40 years for the Sheldon National Bank. Some Sheldon residents have said they may not welcome Mrs. Geiger, who was once one of the town's most prominent and respected citizens.

"I hope she is paroled to Sheldon so she'll have to face the people for the rest of her life," a former neighbor said when her parole was announced in April.

Mrs. Geiger, whose husband died while she was spending five years in prison, is due to be released from the federal prison for women at Alderson, W. Va., on July 1.

She will be driven by private automobile to the Charleston, W. Va., airport 120 miles northwest of the prison and will take an American Airlines flight toward Iowa.

Mrs. Geiger's aged parents live in Sheldon.

Gunman Flees Office With $10,000

Omaha (P) — A neatly dressed gunman, who may have been the one to exchange greetings with the manager in the doorway as he left, held up the Crossroads office of the Occidental Savings and Loan Association and escaped with $10,000 or more Monday.

James F. Svoboda, assistant vice president and manager of the branch located in the busy shopping center, said as he returned from lunch he met a man, apparently the bandit, leaving the office.

"Hi, how are you," asked Svoboda.

"Fine, thanks," the man replied, and continued on his way.

Inside Svoboda found his office empty and called the teller Susan Gillet, who was in the basement.

Miss Gillet said the man approached her window while she was talking on the telephone. He pulled a nickel-plated revolver from the pocket of his suit coat, pushed a green paper sack across the counter and said: "Put all the bills in here."

Miss Gillet complied and then was told to go to the next window.

Ordered To Basement

The bandit then ordered her to go to the basement and stay in a supply room while he met his partner, she said.

Another employee, Janis Bosse, was eating lunch in the basement.

Police said the man was seen leaving eastward from the Crossroads in a car.

He was described as a white man, about 35 years old and slender. He was wearing a brown suit, white shirt, dark tie and white straw hat.

The loss estimate was made by Svoboda.

Prigge Elected Vice President Of Young Adults

Ernie Prigge of David City has been elected first vice president of the Western Regional Conference of Young Adults, Prigge, a junior in the University of Nebraska College of Engineering, was elected during the group's meeting in Wahpeton, N.D.

Western Regional Conference is an inter-group conference for young adults 17 to 30 years of age. It provides an opportunity for the exchange of ideas among members of various groups and organizations in an eight state area. Among those attending were 42 young adults from all parts of Nebraska representing church organizations, Nebraska Rural Youth and other youth groups.

LT&T Asking For Reduction In Assessment On Building

The Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. Monday appealed a Board of Equalization ruling on the old telephone building at 1342 M St. and asked that the assessed valuation be reduced by $69,840.

The appeal petition asked the Lancaster County Board of Equalization to "review and reduce" the assessed value of the real property to $55,125.

A written complaint was presented to the equalization board May 10, protesting that the property was assessed too high for 1966.

After a hearing May 26, the board reduced the assessed valuation $12,000, from $136,965 to $124,965.

But the Telephone and Telegraph Co. complained, the "reduction was completely inadequate in amount and results in too high an assessed value of property and should have been reduced to $55,125."

The petition stated the appraised and assessed value of the property at 1342 M was "too high and grossly excessive in amount."

The telephone firm claims, in the petition, that the ruling should be set aside because the property has "not been fairly and proportionately equalized with the appraised and the assessed value of other real property in the county and is the result of arbitrary and unlawful action."

Public Schools Cooks Meeting For Convention

To improve food service in the public and parochial schools of the state, the Nebraska School Food Service Association is holding its annual convention this week at the Lincoln Hotel.

Inexperienced cooks for elementary and secondary schools next fall are being trained Monday and Tuesday; Wednesday through Friday 275 experienced cooks will be present to swell the number to 400.

According to Allen A. Elliott, director of the School Food Service of the Nebraska Department of Education, the lessons on menu planning and evaluation Monday and Tuesday will be the only training most of the new cooks will get.

Demonstrations of food preparation, purchasing and sanitation will be given the rest of the week.

The Best Way Today is with Natural GAS Air Conditioning

Ever wonder what it would be like to have "Total Comfort" air conditioning in your home? It's different from ordinary cooling and gas air conditioners are designed to provide it for you. Cooling is, to be sure, an important part of air conditioning, but it's only one factor in the total comfort picture. To be completely comfortable inside your home, you must also have air movement, air freshening, air cleaning, and dehumidification. Gas Air Conditioning gives you all this and more. Even on the hottest, stickiest days of summer a gas air conditioner maintains top efficiency. Service needs are minimal, but should the need arise... The Gas Company is as near as your telephone. There are many ways to keep cool... and if you are a home owner now interested in central air conditioning your decision in favor of a gas air conditioner will be a sound one.

Please make a free survey and present a proposal outlining my air conditioning requirements. I understand that I am under no obligation and will receive a free indoor-outdoor thermometer when the proposal is presented.

Facts Can't Be Ignored

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Current controversy over the location of a retail liquor outlet at 2300 Winthrop Rd. spotlights the fact that government has to deal with reality, not whimsy. Some two years ago, the city changed its liquor control policy and the heat has been on the State Liquor Control Commission ever since. But the facts are that the Liquor Control Commission has, to date, been correct and the city has been arbitrary and discriminatory.

Whether you want or do not want a liquor license is not exactly the central question. The central question is what is legal and what is not and the sooner this is realized, the better off everyone will be. The city cannot jump around town, saying here we will have a liquor outlet and here we will not. Rather, the city must establish a system that is legal and stick with it. If liquor licenses are to be permitted in local business zones, then they must be permitted in all such areas. But the city has tried to let them in some such areas while keeping them out of others.

This you just can't do and if people think it over, they wouldn't want the city to do it. If liquor could be so handled, the same thing could be done with selling shoes, suits, cars, cameras or anything else. In the end, the city would be a czar, telling one businessman he could locate here and another one there.

Instead, the city must set up areas in which business can locate and allow any business to go into that area. The same thing is true of all classes of zoning. You can't zone for industry and then say some industries, however, cannot go into the area. You can't zone for residential and then say that only $20,000 homes and up can be constructed in the area.

The pending liquor case involving a location on Winthrop is a perfect example of what you can't do. The property involved was zoned for business, with the thought in mind that it would be used for something other than a liquor license. But the original use did not pan out and the liquor outlet came upon the scene. That is the evil of zoning according to specific use rather than general classification. The city denied the Winthrop location and it was approved by the State Liquor Control Commission. Now, the matter is in court but not on the question as it might have originally been drawn. On the original case, the city likely would have lost, just as it lost such cases in two previous court actions.

But in the Winthrop case, the city has now changed the zoning back to residential. It did so after the fact—after the liquor location question had come to the front. Thus, the court question now is of zoning, not liquor locations. The liquor location is now only the means to an end that is even more important—the overall zoning principles of the city. The zoning question involved in the case is a complicated one. Ordinarily, the court would have to decide only if the land were proper for business or residential zoning but in this case it must, also, deal with the matter of a vested right—the rights and value created by the original zoning. Thus, the court could say that the land is proper for business zoning and that would be that. Or, it could say that, regardless of the propriety of business zoning, the city must live with its original zoning action.

It would seem that the city has a weak case but that is for the court to decide. It is not essential that the court, in its decision, contribute anything to the solution of the liquor location problem in Lincoln. But those who lay the problem entirely at the doorstep of the state commission are not factually correct and may be wrong in principle.

The commission has given a legal interpretation to the city's policies and has been sustained by the courts in doing so. It was the City Council, not the commission, that first permitted liquor outlets beyond the downtown police foot-patrolled area. We believe the city was correct in doing this but it is wrong now to blame the commission for it.

Commission facts show that it has overwhelmingly been in agreement with local governing bodies. In some cases, it has been the fall guy, making a decision that was obviously right but one local bodies lacked the courage to make. If the commission were eliminated and all power returned to local bodies, as some advocate, improvement would be strictly problematical. The commission in the past four to five years has been free of political influence and favoritism. It has operated with restraint and responsibility within the framework of the law governing liquor operations in Nebraska.

A change would open the door to more and perhaps total local control. This would also raise the possibility of local influence peddling, petty politics and favoritism. Before condemning the state commission, we ought to assess the validity of its position and contemplate a few of the alternatives, some of which are not so all inviting.

Commission's Role

When the House begins its hearings on the Selective Service System on Wednesday, it will not be getting all the help it could from the Pentagon. A Pentagon study will be released to the House committee but it will not include one of its most important features.

The study reportedly called for use of a lottery system rather than the selective system now in use but this recommendation will not be included. The Pentagon apparently is eliminating it upon recommendation of Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey who says that since the lottery approach failed in the past, it is no good today.

A lot of things have failed but later proven to be of value. The system of selection now used is discriminatory and highly unpopular with many Americans. Particularly, disturbing is that aspect of the present system that grants educational deferment based on scholastic achievement. Too many people disapprove of creating an intellectual elite through the draft.

Too many people are of the opinion that ability to make high marks in college is an unfair basis for mandatory service in the military. Too many people feel this way for the Pentagon to have eliminated this subject from its report to the House.

Without that subject, the Pentagon study leaves little to be decided but details. So long as the draft remains as selective as it is, there will be discontent with it among many citizens. The hope is that the House itself will recognize the prevailing public attitude in this matter and give the lottery approach the kind of fair hearing to which it is entitled.

Nixon In GOP Lead

Pollster Louis Harris has put the finger on Richard Nixon and Gov. George Romney as the current favorites in the race for Republican nomination for president. Of course, the event is a long way off, 1968, and a lot of things can happen between now and then but the past has proven that presidential nominees are made rather early.

In neither of the last two conventions of both parties has the nomination been decided at the convention. The convention vote has turned out to be merely an endorsement, an execution of groundwork laid long before the delegates gathered to cast their ballots. There is little reason to think it will be any different in 1968.

Neither Nixon nor Romney, however, has a clear shot yet at the nomination. Nixon is cornering the Goldwater support while attempting to woo the middle thinking group of Republicans. Romney's power base is the more liberal arm of the party, which requires that he seek some accommodation with the middle and conservative group. Thus, the question is which man will prove more successful in the art of compromise and pre-convention politicking.

Harris makes one surprising point in his survey report. He notes that while 85 percent of the people can identify Nixon, only half the voters know who Romney is. This is not only a liability for Romney; it is an indictment of the American people. It is nothing short of amazing that half the voters cannot identify Romney, a national political figure of prominence for at least the past four years.

For the GOP party itself, the important thing is that those of influence not let the nomination go by the boards. In both parties it is hoped that the 1968 nomination can reflect a reasonable representation of the thinking of a majority of rank-and-file members.

The Constitution

On June 21 in 1788, New Hampshire ratified the proposed Constitution of the United States. It was the ninth state to do so and its action was sufficient to make the Constitution a reality.

That is why we observe Constitution

Day on this date every year. We have done so now for 177 years which indicates that the Constitution is a durable instrument and one of the few things we still have that existed when it was conceived and written. It is our political soul and character.

What is our Constitution? The easiest answer to that is that it is a written instrument replacing a human king. In it we describe the way we wish to be ruled. Where as a human king can agree to all that it stands for, the king can change. The Constitution cannot. In that respect it is most dependable, and a great improvement in subject relations. In this country only the people can defect.

The Constitution is even more than that. It not only describes itself, but it describes the ideal American. If he is such, he expresses the actions and attitudes the Constitution describes. He practices liberty and freedom but doesn't violate them. He practices them to the point where further practice would impair the position of fellow citizens and then he would draw back.

We have always been proud of our Constitution but a little juvenile in our conception of it. It is a socio-political instrument that means to be highly personal. But we frequently do not accept this view. Too many prefer to think of it as an instrument to keep the president and Congress from encroaching on our inalienable rights, stopping short of stopping us from the same sin.

Candidates Forced To Passing Of Hats

WASHINGTON—Sen. Tom Dodd didn't intend it that way, but what he did may lead to new ethical standards, new reforms and a new focus on political values.

In Connecticut they held "Dodd Day" to raise money for the senator—money which he put in his own bank account. I suggest that Dodd Day should now be made a day of reckoning, when the premium is not on the dollar but on God.

Today we are drafting 20-year-olds and sending them to the Viet Nam front lines while we refuse to pass an excess profit tax, plug the loopholes in the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance or place human life ahead of corporate profits.

Today the aim in Washington is to hire the man with influence who can get what you want out of Congress at the least possible cost to yourself. You look around for the right lawyer or the right lobbyist who has the right friends in high places.

The automobile industry looked around until it found lawyer Lloyd Cutler to help.

The sugar companies and sugar countries looked around for a Charles Patrick Clark and, other smart lawyers who knew Rep. Harold Cooley, D-N.C., chairman of the Agricultural Committee, which wrote a sugar bill based on lobbying fees and personal friendship, thereby adding $700 million annually to the housewives' budget. These are some of the things the new God day should remedy.

It should also remedy the present system whereby a candidate for office must either be wealthy or get himself in hock to interests who mortgage his future vote. This is no way to make democracy live.

A candidate should not have to pass the tin cup at $100-a-plate dinners to raise enough money to pay for a few TV appearances on the airways, when the real fact is that the airways belong to the people. They are merely leased to the big networks. Yet the networks exact the highest rate of all for political broadcasts, and the candidate must either pass the hat or mortgage his future votes.

Republican leaders at the recent GOP conference in Washington came away impressed with Gov. George Romney of Michigan. He had grown in stature, was taking an intelligent interest in national and international affairs.

One straw in the wind was his interest in the GOP policy statement on Latin America submitted by former Ambassador Robert Hill of New Hampshire. Gov. Romney was the only Republican who discussed the statement intelligently. It was obvious that he had taken pains to study it in advance.

Viet Nam Dissenter Leaving Top Group

WASHINGTON—When Undersecretary of State George Ball leaves the government in the early fall, the view from the top on Viet Nam will be unanimous. The departure of the one dissenter is the climax of a quiet drama unique in the Kennedy-Johnson era.

It has been no secret in Washington that for at least three years Ball has consistently opposed in the private councils of government the escalation of the war. In public he has been completely loyal to the administration.

The undersecretary's leaving has no relation to his opposition to Viet Nam policy. He is going because, having worked the 12-hour day and seven-day week for five and a half years, he is bone tired.

Ball has been playing a lonely and an extraordinary role that only the historians can put in proper perspective; but this personal drama aside, the unanimity of the view at the top is a fact of life at what seems a critical juncture for the administration. For there is every evidence that opinion in the country is fragmenting, as doubts spread in a dozen different directions.

Seldom if ever has any foreign entanglement in the nation's life generated so much controversy. By comparison, the Korean War, until the later phase, was accepted more or less passively.

A remarkable series of articles has been appearing in the Paris newspaper, Le Monde, written by Robert Guillaud, who has spent 30 years in Asia. The series, which will in all probability be in book form as well, examines the current American stance and finds it virtually hopeless insofar as any possibility remains of winning the Vietnamese people to our side. Analyzing the infiltration of the Viet Cong into every aspect of life in South Viet Nam, including the high ranks of government, Guillaud concludes that up to a full division has infiltrated in the Saigon area.

The rule here is to dismiss French criticism because, so the line goes, they failed their war in Indo-China and they cannot believe the Americans can succeed. But far from being a Gaullist organ, Le Monde is one of the few independent newspapers in France and one of the most respected journals in all of Europe, both for its reporting and its editorial judgments. Guillaud has a scholarly reputation.

Johnson inherited the dilemma of Viet Nam, and at what point he might have found a way out his critics seldom say. He also inherited the advisers who shaped the initial Viet Nam policy under President Kennedy, and he has clung to them with a grip that at times resembles that of a drowning man.

It is because the advice of the undersecretary of state has been contrary to the top-level consensus that his departure means more than a mere shift in the foreign policy hierarchy. Short of some opening for new ideas, for exchange of opinion that may be contrary to the consensus, the blind alley is likely to have no exit.

LA VERA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

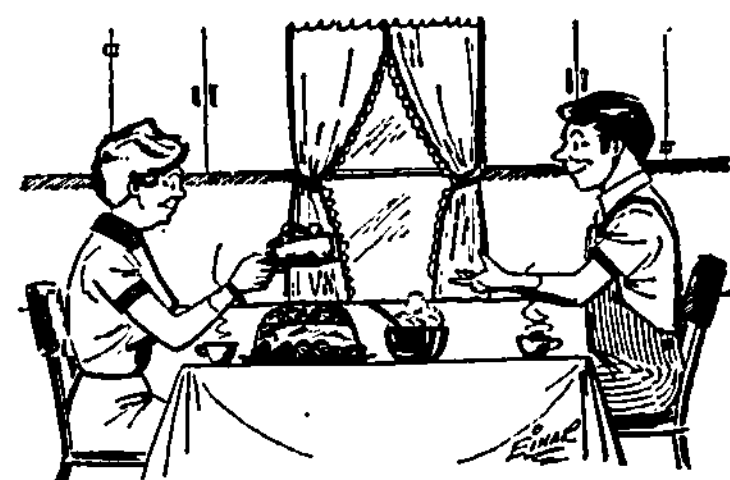

Our little dog has such winning ways that we often overlook the mischief he gets into about the farm. I never thought I could forgive him for digging up the morning glory seeds that I had planted beneath the windows of the utility room. Unfortunately there was a tiny round hole made by some small creature at the edge of the row. Our little dog, who thoroughly enjoys chasing mice, had a wild idea there would be a mouse at the other end of the hole. Unfortunately again, the tunnel ran along the entire length of the row of seeds.

When I arrived on the scene, the dirt was flying every direction and the little dog was wide-eyed with anticipation. I gasped, then uttered a shriek of disgust that sent the puppy almost tail before head around the corner. He was just as frightened as I was angry.

I gingerly pushed the soil back into place. The tiny plants are coming up now and they are really not as misplaced as I thought they would be.

The next day I heard the little dog barking. By the tone of his bark I was certain he had met head-on with a lion or Bengal tiger. When I investigated I found he was looking into the glass of a storm window that had been placed on the ground. His fierce looking reflection frightened him into thinking the dog staring right back at him was about to devour him, bark and all.

I laughed in spite of myself and forgot about the row of morning glory seeds beneath my window. I have decided he does not have an eye for beauty. It was only last week he dug out the aster plants I had set out one evening. Perhaps I should take him out into the garden and see if he will dig up some of the weeds for me.

One of the busiest times of the season is building up on the farm. Sandwiched between the cultivation of the corn and milo is the task of cutting and putting up hay.

The Farmer cut alfalfa today but as he suspected, the crop is not as good as in past years. The below average rainfall during the spring months greatly cut the yield of hay.

Checking and repairing the combine have been started. This work started with the last rain when field work was curtailed. I heard the motor hum and immediately my thoughts turned to long days in the field with loads of grain to be hauled away from the machine. Packing and filling water jugs with fresh, cold water seemed to loom right in front of my eyes. I know harvest time will be upon us soon . . . always sooner than we think.

Strawberries and cream were made for each other. Like other perfect couples, they're good singly, divine together. The berries have been so beautiful this year. As I stem them, I marvel at their brilliant red color and plump, firm shapes. "Almost too perfect to eat," I say to myself as I put them into a bowl. But being a very greedy person when it comes to devouring strawberries, I do not let this philosophy stand in the way.

I saw a recipe for strawberries made with a rum sauce poured over the top of the berries. The berries were over the top of ice cream which in turn was over the top of pieces of cake broken into bits. This sounded like too much of "over the top" to suit me. Just who would want to spoil the taste of strawberries by adding so many extras?

Each year I say we are going to start a bed of strawberries. I usually say this when I have a big dish of the luscious fruit before me. Somewhere along the line I lost the idea, generally later in the season when I see the weeds grow and the days are sultry and warm. I tell The Farmer my hands are shaped right for picking strawberries but they do not have the right conformity for pulling weeds. With such a handicap, I would not be the best choice for tending a strawberry bed. Somehow I can never get the idea across to him. In the meantime I let the years go by without getting strawberries into my garden.

Medicare

Hastings, Neb. According to recent news reports, U.S. Senator Carl T. Curtis was very desirous of having $3 million added to the appropriations for the establishment of the USDA meat research center at the Clay County area of the Hastings Naval Ammunition Depot. But Senator Curtis was a bitter opponent of Medicare, which was designed for the health of retired Nebraska farmers and other elderly Nebraskans and elderly persons in America.

That Curtis should have been far more interested in the health of hogs, cattle and sheep on Nebraska farms and the health of livestock throughout America than in the health of elderly persons in general is rather appalling.

There are reports that he gave his blessings to Medicare about five months before the 1966 general election in which he is a GOP candidate for the U.S. Senate. Is it possible he finally awakened to the fact that multitudes could not secure hospital insurance from private insurance companies and that Medicare was the only salvation for those elderly persons?

Many Nebraskans past 70, having paid hundreds of dollars in on hospital insurance policies, have been notified they were no longer fit to be policy-holders.

Furthermore, the federal government is in the insurance business in other fields, so it is not a bit worse for the government to have Medicare for America's elderly persons.

Sheriff's Office

Lincoln, Neb. Has it ever entered the minds of the Lincoln voters that almost 90% of the votes in Lancaster County are controlled by the voters living in Lincoln proper?

A good example of this situation is the election of the sheriff. Time and time again the voters of Lancaster County (outside of Lincoln) have expressed their desire for a change in our sheriff's department, and during each election for the past 16 years, Lincoln voters have elected the same candidate.

During the last election in the county, outside of the city, Kenneth Nelson carried the Republican nomination by over 123 votes. Bob Collin carried the Democratic nomination by over 338 votes. Now, I ask the question—do the county voters want a change or not?

It is true the voters living within the city of Lincoln have very little if any contact with the sheriff's office, and it is understandable why they would feel that the sheriff's office is doing a good job. I would suggest the Lincoln voters talk to some of the voters outside of Lincoln and see how they feel about the service and dependability of our present sheriff's office.

Denney Philosophy

Wayne, Neb. In a recent letter, Mrs. L. E. S. supported Robert Denney's "total victory philosophy" in Viet Nam. She asks: "How does the writer know that the Red Chinese would enter the war?" No one can know for sure, but a close look at history calls for a close evaluation of the situation.

When Austria declared war on Serbia, she felt that Russia would not come to the aid of Serbia. Russia immediately mobilized her troops and World War I began. Germany had few qualms about marching troops across neutral Belgium. However, she did not count on England's determination to protect Belgium, and World War I was expanded.

After Munich, Hitler felt he had a free rein in Europe. After his attack on Poland, however, the Allies were forced into action, and World War II began.

Once before in our country's history, Red China has been under-estimated. At a meeting in Wake Island, General MacArthur assured President Truman that Red China would not intervene in the Korean War. On November 1, 1950, Red China did in fact enter the Korean War.

As I said before, no one can predict for sure what Red China's action would be if the war were expanded into one of conquest. However, under-estimating the determination of an adversary is evident throughout history. Before voters endorse Robert Denney and his "total victory philosophy," they should be prepared to endure a major land war on the Asian mainland and be aware of the possibilities of a nuclear war resulting from a decision arrived at too hastily.

Give It A Try

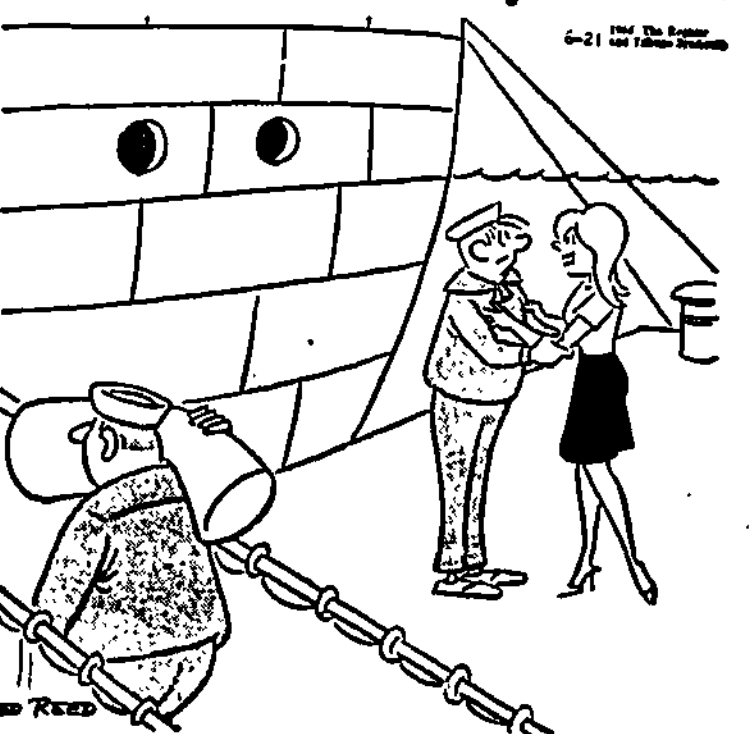

Lincoln, Neb.

Regarding the June 18 item by Harold R. Horn, M.D., it is said that a few doctors take such a hostile attitude toward the Medicare program. Out of respect to the 175,000 Nebraskans eligible for Medicare and some 18 million others throughout our country, let's at least give it a fair trial. Nothing is perfect. Any big business or corporation trying out a new service or product will give it a good tryout before condemning it. Let's do the same with Medicare.

Dr. Horn's criticism of The Lincoln Star was uncalled for. Freedom of the press is still a part of our Constitution.

Facts Can't Be Ignored

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Current controversy over the location of a retail liquor outlet at 2300 Winthrop Rd. spotlights the fact that government has to deal with reality, not whimsy. Some two years ago, the city changed its liquor control policy and the heat has been on the State Liquor Control Commission ever since. But the facts are that the Liquor Control Commission has, to date, been correct and the city has been arbitrary and discriminatory.

Whether you want or do not want a liquor license is not exactly the central question. The central question is what is legal and what is not and the sooner this is realized, the better off everyone will be. The city cannot jump around town, saying here we will have a liquor outlet and here we will not. Rather, the city must establish a system that is legal and stick with it. If liquor licenses are to be permitted in local business zoning areas, then they must be permitted in all such areas. But the city has tried to let them in some such areas while keeping them out of others.

This you just can't do and if people think it over, they wouldn't want the city to do it. If liquor could be so handled, the same thing could be done with selling shoes, suits, cars, cameras or anything else. In the end, the city would be a czar, telling one businessman he could locate here and another one there.

Instead, the city must set up areas in which business can locate and allow any business to go into that area. The same thing is true of all classes of zoning. You can't zone for industry and then say some industries, however, cannot go into the area. You can't zone for residential and then say that only $20,000 homes and up can be constructed in the area.

The pending liquor case involving a location on Winthrop is a perfect example of what you can't do. The property involved was zoned for business, with the thought in mind that it would be used for something other than a liquor license. But the original use did not pan out and the liquor outlet came upon the scene. That is the evil of zoning according to specific use rather than general classification. The city denied the Winthrop location and it was approved by the State Liquor Control Commission. Now, the matter is in court but not on the question as it might have originally been drawn. On the original case, the city likely would have lost, just as it lost such cases in two previous court actions.

When the House begins its hearings on the Selective Service System on Wednesday, it will not be getting all the help it could from the Pentagon. A Pentagon study will be released to the House committee but it will not include one of its most important features.

A lot of things have failed but later proven to be of value. The system of selection now used is discriminatory and highly unpopular with many Americans. Particularly disturbing is that aspect of the

But in the Winthrop case, the city has now changed the zoning back to residential. It did so after the fact—after the liquor location question had come to the front. Thus, the court question now is of zoning, not liquor locations. The liquor location is now only the means to an end that is even more important—the overall zoning principles of the city. The zoning question involved in the case is a complicated one. Ordinarily, the court would have to decide only if the land were proper for business or residential zoning but in this case it must, also, deal with the matter of a vested right—the rights and value created by the original zoning. Thus, the court could say that the land is proper for business zoning and that would be that. Or, it could say that, regardless of the propriety of business zoning, the city must live with its original zoning action.

It would seem that the city has a weak case but that is for the court to decide. It is not essential that the court, in its decision, contribute anything to the solution of the liquor location problem in Lincoln. But far from being a Gaullist organ, Le Monde is one of the few independent newspapers in France and one of the most respected journals in all of Europe, both for its reporting and its editorial judgments. Guillain has a scholarly reputation.

Johnson inherited the dilemma of Viet Nam, and at what point he might have found a way out his critics seldom say. He also inherited the advisers who shaped the initial Viet Nam policy under President Kennedy, and he has clung to them with a grip that at times resembles that of a drowning man.

It is because the advice of the undersecretary of state has been contrary to the top-level consensus that his departure means more than a mere shift in the foreign policy hierarchy. Short of some opening for new ideas, for exchange of opinion that may be contrary to the consensus, the blind alley is likely to have no exit.

Patchwork Prairie Country

Our little dog has such winning ways that we often overlook the mischief he gets into about the farm. I never thought I could forgive him for digging up the morning glory seeds that I had planted beneath the windows of the utility room. Unfortunately there was a tiny round hole made by some small creature at the edge of the row. Our little dog, who thoroughly enjoys chasing mice, had a wild idea there would be a mouse at the other end of the hole. Unfortunately again, the tunnel ran along the entire length of the row of seeds.

When I arrived on the scene, the dirt was flying every direction and the little dog was wide-eyed with anticipation. I gasped, then uttered a shriek of disgust that sent the puppy almost tail before head around the corner. He was just as frightened as I was angry.

I gingerly pushed the soil back into place. The tiny plants are coming up now and they are really not as misplaced as I thought they would be.

The next day I heard the little dog barking. By the tone of his bark I was certain he had met head-on with a lion or Bengal tiger. When I investigated I found he was looking into the glass of a storm window that had been placed on the ground. His fierce looking reflection frightened him into thinking the dog staring right back at him was about to devour him, bark and all.

I laughed in spite of myself and forgot about the row of morning glory seeds beneath my window. I have decided he does not have an eye for beauty. It was only last week he dug out the aster plants I had set out one evening. Perhaps I should take him out into the garden and see if he will dig up some of the weeds for me.

One of the busiest times of the season is building up on the farm. Sandwiched between the cultivation of the corn and milo is the task of cutting and putting up hay. The Farmer cut alfalfa today but as he suspected, the crop is not as good as in past years. The below average rainfall during the spring months greatly cut the yield of hay.

Checking and repairing the combine have been started. This work started with the last rain when field work was curtailed. I heard the motor hum and immediately my thoughts turned to long days in the field with loads of grain to be hauled away from the machine. Packing the lunches for the field hands and filling water jugs with fresh, cold water seemed to loom right in front of my eyes. I know harvest time will be upon us soon . . . always sooner than we think.

Strawberries and cream were made for each other. Like other perfect couples, they're good singly, divine together. The berries have been so beautiful this year. As I stem them, I marvel at their brilliant red color and plump, firm shapes. "Almost too perfect to eat," I say to myself as I put them into a bowl. But being a very greedy person when it comes to devouring strawberries, I do not let this philosophy stand in the way.

I saw a recipe for strawberries made with a rum sauce poured over the top of the berries. The berries were over the top of ice cream which in turn was over the top of pieces of cake broken into bits. This sounded like too much of "over the top" to suit me. Just who would want to spoil the taste of strawberries by adding so many extras?

Each year I say we are going to start a bed of strawberries. I usually say this when I have a big dish of the luscious fruit before me. Somewhere along the line I lost the idea, generally later in the season when I see the weeds grow and the days are sultry and warm.

I tell The Farmer my hands are shaped right for picking strawberries but they do not have the right conformity for pulling weeds. With such a handicap, I would not be the best choice for tending a strawberry bed. Somehow I can never get the idea across to him. In the meantime I let the years go by without getting strawberries into my garden.

Medicare

Hastings, Neb. According to recent news reports, U.S. Senator Carl T. Curtis was very desirous of having $3 million added to the appropriations for the establishment of the USDA meat research center at the Clay County area of the Hastings Naval Ammunition Depot. But Senator Curtis was a bitter opponent of Medicare, which was designed for the health of retired Nebraska farmers and other elderly Nebraskans and elderly persons in America.

That Curtis should have been far more interested in the health of hogs, cattle and sheep on Nebraska farms and the health of livestock throughout America than in the health of elderly persons in general is rather appalling.

There are reports that he gave his blessings to Medicare about five months before the 1966 general election in which he is a GOP candidate for the U.S. Senate. Is it possible he finally awakened to the fact that multitudes could not secure hospital insurance from private insurance companies and that Medicare was the only salvation for those elderly persons?

Many Nebraskans past 70, having paid hundreds of dollars in on hospital insurance policies, have been notified they were no longer fit to be policy-holders.

Furthermore, the federal government is in the insurance business in other fields, so it is not a bit worse for the government to have Medicare for America's elderly persons.

Sheriff's Office

Lincoln, Neb. Has it ever entered the minds of the Lincoln voters that almost 90% of the votes in Lancaster County are controlled by the voters living in Lincoln proper?

A good example of this situation is the election of the sheriff. Time and time again the voters of Lancaster County (outside of Lincoln) have expressed their desire for a change in our sheriff's department, and during each election for the past 16 years, Lincoln voters have elected the same candidate.

During the last election in the county, outside of the city, Kenneth Nelson carried the Republican nomination by over 123 votes. Bob Collin carried the Democratic nomination by over 338 votes. Now, I ask the question—do the county voters want a change or not?

It is true the voters living within the city of Lincoln have very little if any contact with the sheriff's office, and it is understandable why they would feel that the sheriff's office is doing a good job. I would suggest the Lincoln voters talk to some of the voters outside of Lincoln and see how they feel about the service and dependability of our present sheriff's office.

Denney Philosophy

Wayne, Neb. In a recent letter, Mrs. L. E. S. supported Robert Denney's "total victory philosophy" in Viet Nam. She asks: "How does the writer know that the Red Chinese would enter the war?" No one can know for sure, but a close look at history calls for a close evaluation of the situation.

When Austria declared war on Serbia, she felt that Russia would not come to the aid of Serbia. Russia immediately mobilized her troops and World War I began. Germany had few qualms about marching troops across neutral Belgium. However, she did not count on England's determination to protect Belgium, and World War I was expanded.

After Munich, Hitler felt he had a free rein in Europe. After his attack on Poland, however, the Allies were forced into action, and World War II began.

Once before in our country's history, Red China has been under-estimated. At a meeting in Wake Island, General MacArthur assured President Truman that Red China would not intervene in the Korean War. On November 1, 1950, Red China did in fact enter the Korean War.

As I said before, no one can predict for sure what Red China's action would be if the war were expanded into one of conquest. However, under-estimating the determination of an adversary is evident throughout history. Before voters endorse Robert Denney and his "total victory philosophy," they should be prepared to endure a major land war on the Asian mainland and be aware of the possibilities of a nuclear war resulting from a decision arrived at too hastily.

Give It A Try

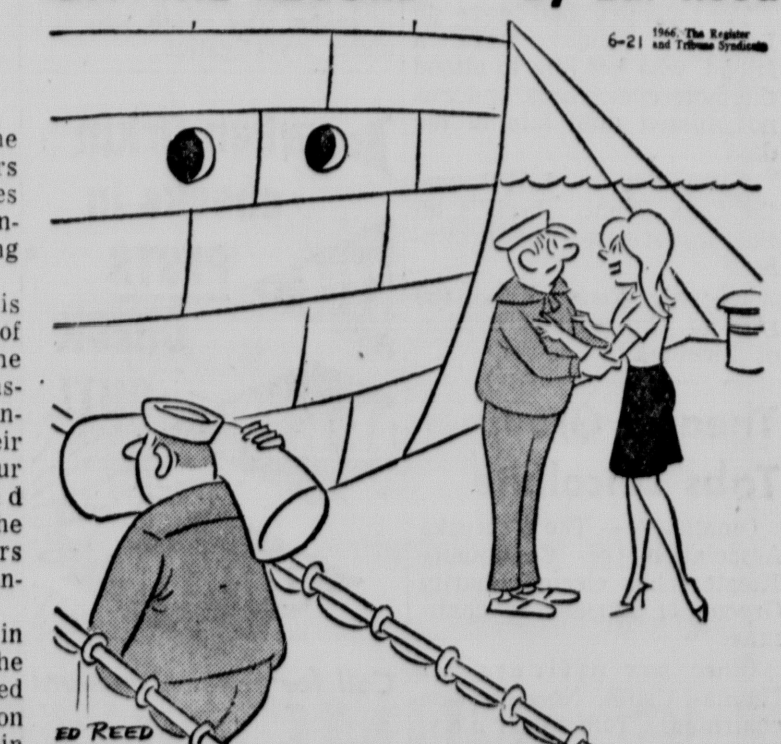

Lincoln, Neb. Regarding the June 18 item by Harold R. Horn, M.D., it is said that a few doctors take such a hostile attitude toward the Medicare program. Out of respect to the 175,000 Nebraskans eligible for Medicare and some 18 million others throughout our country, let's at least give it a fair trial. Nothing is perfect. Any big business or corporation trying out a new service or product will give it a good tryout before condemning it. Let's do the same with Medicare.

Dr. Horn's criticism of The Lincoln Star was uncalled for. Freedom of the press is still a part of our Constitution.

SCORE Scores High Among Retiree Groups

By ROBERT PETERSON

Man's rising interest in geriatrics has spawned several worthy new groups which both serve and utilize retirees. One of the best is SCORE, which stands for Service Corps of Retired Executives.

Officials of Uncle Sam's Small Business Administration dreamed up this flourishing little organization. They reasoned that in major cities around the nation there were countless competent executives who had hit pension dust at 65 and were now languishing in unaccustomed leisure. Why not develop a roster of these men and invite them to volunteer services to local businessmen having trouble operating profitably?

Two or three SCORE groups were organized experimentally, and worked so well that similar groups can now be found pulsing purposefully in some 60 major cities.

Here's a letter from a retired merchant who enjoys every minute devoted to this cause. "I no longer have time to get bored," writes Jules Hirsch of Miami, Fla. "Several friends and I belong to the local chapter of SCORE, and each day you'll find us out in the field working with small business owners who have problems."

"We give them the benefits of a lifetime of experience — all for free. We reap our reward in knowing we're using our experience, and are helping younger men improve their businesses."

"When the owner of a small business decides he needs help, he contacts the local SBA and a counselor is assigned. Together, they study the problems of his operation, going over the books, merchandise, controls, purchasing and personnel. Then the counselor suggests ways and means of solving his problems."

"Last year, 220 small businesses here in Dade County, Florida, benefited from the efforts of our SCORE counselors. And we counselors derived satisfaction in feeling we were useful to some of our younger colleagues in business."

Retired executives eager to add some snap, crackle and pop to their later years should volunteer their services at their nearest office of the Small Business Administration.

Younger men heading floundering firms, or firms which have not achieved their full potentials should also contact the SBA and request the counsel and advice of men who have had years of experience in overcoming managerial obstacles, and who may be able to lead them out of the red and into the black.

Traffic Volume On Rural Roads Up 11% In May

Traffic volume on Nebraska's rural roads during May showed an 11% increase from the same month a year ago, the State Roads Department said Monday.

Total volume for this year through May was 10% above the total for the first five months of 1966, the department said.

Its traffic counters showed that the May volume was nine per cent greater than the volume for the previous month.

The department said the largest volume increase during May, 23%, was registered on State Highway 9 north of West Point. Other major increases came on the Interstate 80 Highway east of Overton junction and on U.S. 26 east of Scottsbluff.

The largest decrease in traffic, a drop of 15%, was recorded on U.S. 30 west of Elm Creek. Six per cent drops were registered on the county road east of Pickrell and on U.S. 6-34 west of Arapahoe.

Name And Location Change Approved For Omaha Bank

State Banking Director Byron Dunn approved Monday the application of the Indian Hills Bank, Inc., of Omaha to change its location and name.

The bank received authority to move from 7764 Dodge St., its location since 1964, to the southwest corner of 120th St. and West Center Road, adjacent to two shopping centers now under development.

The name of the bank will be changed to Omaha Gateway Bank, Inc.

The Southwest Bank of Omaha and Bank of Millard protested the application at a public hearing June 9.

Dunn said the Indians Hills Bank is now situated in an undesirable and inadequate building in an area which is already served by two other banks and one detached facility.

The new bank site is in "a fast growing area" which presently is not served by "closely existing banking facilities."

The Banking Department on two previous occasions, in 1963 and 1965, rejected applications to establish a bank in the 120th St. and West Center Road area.

Thomas Appeals Conviction Of Assault, Robbery

An attorney for Penitentiary inmate Jerry L. Thomas asked the State Supreme Court Monday to reverse his 1962 Cheyenne County conviction on charges of assault and robbery and auto theft.

Thomas, 25, was sentenced to a 24-year term after pleading guilty.

Sidney Attorney Guy F. Bush told the Supreme Court in a brief that Thomas' constitutional rights to an attorney were not protected at the preliminary hearing when he entered the guilty plea.

He said Thomas should either be released from the Penitentiary or be granted a new hearing.

City Annexes Land At Base

... 2,590 ACRES

By BOB SCHREFF
Star Staff Writer

The City Council Monday voted unanimously to annex 2,590 acres of city-owned Lincoln Air Force Base land.

The annexation excludes the area containing 1,100 housing units owned by the federal government, a portion of B Ave. bordering the housing facility and an ammunition dump in the northwest corner of the base.

It moves within city limits the rest of the base property, including the 500-acre Job Corps campus, and the city-controlled Huskerville area.

No Change

Mayor Dean Petersen and City Atty. Ralph Nelson said the council action means no change in the continuing responsibility the city has toward property it owns.

Although protection and services for the base were worked out in a joint agreement with the city during the period of Air Force occupancy, Mayor Petersen said, "We're ready to assume our responsibilities whenever the government is ready to relinquish the lease."

The government has given the city assurance of an outright cancellation of the old 99-year lease, and previously had indicated that the lease might be cancelled by Saturday.

However, the mayor noted that the government might not be prepared to relinquish its control by Saturday. "We have advised them we can take it over anytime if given 30 days notice. We have enough personnel to handle fire and police protection, at least right now," he said.

New Deadline

In other action, the council approved an ordinance which will allow public dances to remain open until 1 a.m., as compared with the old 12 midnight closing deadline.

The new measure will have particular application to West Lincoln night spots which had permitted dancing until 1 a.m. before the village was annexed by the city.

Teen-age public dances will still be required to close at midnight.

Mayor Petersen also proposed a joint meeting between city and Board of Education officials and interested citizens to work out a controversy involving proposed curb setbacks to allow more parking in front of public schools.

Howard McGinnis, of 2500 Rathbone Road, told the Council that City Traffic Engineer Robert Hoisinger apparently has asked the school board to order inset parking on school frontage in order to remedy a situation caused by parents parking in the street to pick up children.

He said he particularly objected to the destruction of several 35-45 foot American Elm trees to add the parking area on the south side of Sheridan grade school. There is no traffic congestion at that location, he alleged.

Morris To Ask Funds

... ACCOUNTING PROBLEMS

The Department of Institutions is planning to ask the 1967 Legislature for a deficit appropriation of about $16 million to adjust to new accounting procedures and to cover salary hikes at the State Penitentiary.

Department Director George Morris said $1.4 million of this will be needed to put his department on an accrual accounting system by July 1, 1967. The change is needed to make state agencies' payroll procedures uniform, as required by law.

State Fiscal Analyst John Quigley said the reported deficit was technically nonexistent.

The Problem

Here's how the problem comes about:

Most state agencies pay their employees on the last day of the month for work done that month. But under a practice inaugurated years ago by the old three-member Board of Control, predecessor to the Institutions Department, the institutions agency in effect made a practice of using next month's income to meet this month's payroll.

The new accrual accounting system will end this practice and put all agencies on a uniform basis.

"What it amounts to is that we will have to have an appropriation for 25 months payroll in a 24-month period," Morris said.

"Under current procedures, there are no deficiencies with the possible exception of the Penal Complex," Quigley said.

Penitentiary Warden Maurice Sigler has said $200,000, the rest of the planned request, is necessary to meet salary increases for key employees.

Quigley said a supplementary appropriation may be necessary, but a deficit that

Morris "has the power and responsibility to avert this through administrative measures."

None Necessary

Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, chairman of the Legislature's budget committee, also emphasized no deficiency appropriations will be necessary in the early 1967 session.

"The new accounting system will create the problem, but an appropriation needed in this period will follow," he said.

Marvel said it "is hoped that if there is a deficiency, the unappropriated surplus of the general fund will account for this bookkeeping deficiency."

The University of Nebraska has reported it will need a $570,000 supplemental appropriation from the next Legislature to meet a shortage of operating funds from higher than expected enrollments.

JUDGES SELECTED TO HEAR MEAT LABELING CHALLENGE

A panel of three federal judges has been named to hear a lawsuit challenging the constitutionality of the meat labeling law passed by the 1965 Legislature.

The judicial trio includes Harvey M. Johnson, Omaha, judge of the Eighth Circuit Court; and District Judges Richard E. Robinson of Omaha and Robert Van Pelt of Lincoln.

The three were appointed by Charles J. Vogel, chief judge of the Eighth Circuit, according to an order filed in Federal Court in Lincoln Monday.

The suit filed by Armour and Co. seeks an injunction to prevent Nebraska enforcement of the law.

Health Board Urged To Go Slow

By VIRGIL FALLON
Star Staff Writer

The State Board of Health Monday was urged to go slow in applying any new regulations governing homes for the aged or infirm to established nursing and care homes.

Sens. William R. Skarda, and Eugene T. Mahoney of Omaha joined other state and county officials in protesting the application of new, higher standards to homes which are providing adequate care for the elderly.

Skarda said many care homes "would be forced to close their doors" if higher standards were imposed by the board.

Douglas County Welfare Director Carl Peterson said that "close to $1 million a year is paid care homes for county patients."

Drive Up Costs

"If you go too far, too fast in increasing standards," Peterson said, "you'll drive up costs, take away nurses from hospitals and cause hardships."

State Welfare Director John Gage said his department "is not against upgrading of nursing and care homes, but let's do it by evolution—not revolution."

The health board took the complaints under advisement. The board had adopted stronger standards for existing and future homes for the elderly following a public hearing last October, the first revisions of state standards since 1957.

The new regulations were scheduled to go into effect July 1, but the State Justice Department withheld its approval of the regulations because of legal defects.

Verne A. Pangborn, state medical facilities chief, said the attorney general's office is working on the legal defects, but said another public hearing would have to be held on any new draft of regulations.

He said it would be physically impossible to accomplish the redraft, notice of public hearing and other procedures before Jan. 1, 1967.

Officials from Box Butte, Washington and Hall Counties also appeared in protesting the new regulations. In other action, the board:

Two Horse Mutilations Investigated

Lancaster County sheriff's officers were called to investigate two complaints of horse mutilation on farms south of Lincoln.

Two mares owned by B. C. McAttee, whose farm is located 1½ miles south of Neb. 2 on 70th, were cut on the forehead sometime Saturday, according to McAttee.

McAttee said that he and his family were not at home all day Saturday, but he noticed the cuts when he returned that evening.

Deputy Sheriff Glenn Allen said it is impossible to tell exactly how the mares were injured. He reported he was unable to find anything in the corral that might have caused the cuts.

Suspected horse mutilation of a yearling colt owned by Kendall Garrison of 4801 Mandarin Circle was determined to be a self-inflicted wound, possibly incurred when the Appaloosa mare backed into a fence.

Several horse mutilations have occurred recently in the Lincoln-Lancaster County area. A $1,000 reward is being offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible.

Rhodesia Blocks Reds

Pretoria, South Africa (AP)—Communism regards white-ruled Rhodesia as the biggest obstacle to the success of its plans in Africa, Prime Minister Ian Smith said.

—was advised that bids may be taken late July or early August on the estimated $650,000 State Agriculture and Public Health Laboratory on the University of Nebraska East Campus.

—approved the state plan for hospitals and medical facilities for year beginning July 1 as recommended by the State Hospital and Medical Facilities Advisory Committee.

—commended members Dr. Loyal Payne and Charles Fowler, both of Lincoln, for their service on the state board. The terms of both members are expiring.

—were advised state health officials will meet Saturday in Grand Island with local officials regarding the controversial relocation of Grand Island's municipal dump.

City Annexes Land At Base

... 2,590 ACRES

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

The City Council Monday voted unanimously to annex 2,590 acres of city-owned Lincoln Air Force Base land.

The annexation excludes the area containing 1,100 housing units owned by the federal government, a portion of B Ave. bordering the housing facility and an ammunition dump in the northwest corner of the base.

It moves within city limits the rest of the base property, including the 500-acre Job Corps campus, and the city-controlled Huskerville area.

No Change
Mayor Dean Petersen and City Atty. Ralph Nelson said the council action means no change in the continuing responsibility the city has toward property it owns.

Although protection and services for the base were worked out in a joint agreement with the city during the period of Air Force occupancy, Mayor Petersen said, "We're ready to assume our responsibilities whenever the government is ready to relinquish the lease."

The government has given the city assurance of an outright cancellation of the old 99-year lease, and previously had indicated that the lease might be cancelled by Saturday.

However, the mayor noted that the government might not be prepared to relinquish its control by Saturday. "We have advised them we can take it over anytime if given 30 days notice. We have enough personnel to handle fire and police protection, at least right now," he said.

New Deadline
In other action, the council approved an ordinance which will allow public dances to remain open until 1 a.m., as compared with the old 12 midnight closing deadline.

The new measure will have particular application to West Lincoln night spots which had permitted dancing until 1 a.m. before the village was annexed by the city.

Teen-age public dances will still be required to close at midnight.

Mayor Petersen also proposed a joint meeting between city and Board of Education officials and interested citizens to work out a controversy involving proposed curb setbacks to allow more parking in front of public schools.

Howard McGinnis, of 2500 Rathbone Road, told the Council that City Traffic Engineer Robert Holsinger apparently has asked the school board to order inset parking on school frontage in order to remedy a situation caused by parents parking in the street to pick up children.

He said he particularly objected to the destruction of several 35-45 foot American Elm trees to add the parking area on the south side of Sheridan grade school. There is no traffic congestion at that location, he alleged.

NOBODY TOLD HIM HOW HIGH IT WAS

Nobody told Volunteers of America driver Alexander Stokes how high the truck was, so he thought it could get under the 9-foot overpass in Des Moines.

But it didn't. Stokes, 55, in foreground wearing cap, suffered a slight cut on his nose. Helper Thomas Tobin escaped injury.

Morris To Ask Funds

... ACCOUNTING PROBLEMS

The Department of Institutions is planning to ask the 1967 Legislature for a deficit appropriation of about $1.6 million to adjust to new accounting procedures and to cover salary hikes at the State Penitentiary.

Department Director
George Morris said $1.4 million of this will be needed to put his department on an accrual accounting system by July 1, 1967. The change is needed to make state agencies' payroll procedures uniform, as required by law.

State Fiscal Analyst John Quigley said the reported deficit was technically non-existent.

The Problem
Here's how the problem comes about:

Most state agencies pay their employees on the last day of the month for work done that month. But under a practice inaugurated years ago by the old three-member Board of Control, predecessor to the Institutions Department, the institutions agency in effect made a practice of using next month's income to meet this month's payroll.

The new accrual accounting system will end this practice and put all agencies on a uniform basis.

"What it amounts to is that we will have to have an appropriation for 25 months payroll in a 24-month period," Morris said.

"Under current procedures, there are no deficiencies with the possible exception of the Penal Complex," Quigley said.

Penitentiary Warden Maurice Sigler has said $200,000, the rest of the planned request, is necessary to meet salary increases for key employees.

Quigley said a supplementary appropriation may be necessary, but added that

Morris "has the power and responsibility to avert this through administrative measures."

None Necessary

Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, chairman of the Legislature's budget committee, also emphasized no deficiency appropriations will be necessary in the early 1967 session.

"The new accounting system will create the problem, but an appropriation needed in this period will follow," he said.

Marvel said it "is hoped that if there is a deficiency, the unappropriated surplus of the general fund will account for this bookkeeping deficiency."

The University of Nebraska has reported it will need a $570,000 supplemental appropriation from the next Legislature to meet a shortage of operating funds from higher than expected enrollments.

JUDGES SELECTED TO HEAR MEAT LABELING CHALLENGE

A panel of three federal judges has been named to hear a lawsuit challenging the constitutionality of the meat labeling law passed by the 1965 Legislature.

The judicial trio includes Harvey M. Johnson, Omaha, judge of the Eighth Circuit Court; and District Judges Richard E. Robinson of Omaha and Robert Van Pelt of Lincoln.

The three were appointed by Charles J. Vogel, chief judge of the Eighth Circuit, according to an order filed in Federal Court in Lincoln Monday.

The suit filed by Armour and Co. seeks an injunction to prevent Nebraska enforcement of the law.

Health Board Urged To Go Slow

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The State Board of Health Monday was urged to go slow in applying any new regulations governing homes for the aged or infirm to established nursing and care homes.

Sens. William R. Skarda and Eugene T. Mahoney of Omaha joined other state and county officials in protesting the application of new, higher standards to homes which are providing adequate care for the elderly.

Skarda said many care homes "would be forced to close their doors" if higher standards were imposed by the board.

Douglas County Welfare Director Carl Peterson said that "close to $1 million a year is paid care homes for county patients."

Drive Up Costs

"If you go too far, too fast in increasing standards," Peterson said, "you'll drive up costs, take away nurses from hospitals and cause hardships."

State Welfare Director John Gage said his department "is not against upgrading of nursing and care homes, but let's do it by evolution—not revolution."

The health board took the complaints under advisement. The board had adopted stronger standards for existing and future homes for the elderly following a public hearing last October, the first revisions of state standards since 1957.

Republicans Condemn Young GOP 'Rat Finks'

Washington (AP)—The Republican National Committee publicly censured the controversial New Jersey "rat finks" Monday and then moved to tighten control over the executive committee of the Young Republicans.

Hours after the committee voted to condemn the "rat finks" for their acts of bigotry, the GOP National Chairman Ray Blais and Young Republican Chairman Thomas Van Sickle announced agreement on a series of steps aimed at coordinating the activities of the two groups.

They announced that:

- For the first time two members of the Republican National Committee would be elected to the Young Republican National Committee.
- Lower Age Limit
- The 1967 convention of the Young Republicans will be asked to lower the age limit of members to 34.

Missiles To Get Better

Washington (AP)—A technological base now being laid may in the next few months become the foundation for an array of newer, bigger, and more sophisticated intercontinental ballistic missiles.

The Air Force has allotted $10 million for the fiscal year starting July 1 to study future strategic missile systems.

Several projects now under way could contribute to development of a missile which would carry about twice the payload of the presently deployed Minute-Man ICBM's, and still have roughly the same range of 7,000 miles.

More significantly, however, the improved ICBM's would include several more advanced penetration aids and multiple warheads which Pentagon officials believe would insure penetrating any enemy antimissile defense system.

WILSON BLAMES REDS

London (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson Monday night accused Communists of "endangering the economic welfare of the nation" by prolonging Britain's 36-day-old maritime strike.

Wilson told parliament a "tightly-knit group of politically motivated men" was bringing "backstage pressure" on the executive council of the striking National Union of Seamen (NUS) in an attempt to cripple the nation's economy.

6 South Nebraska Counties To Get Drought Disaster Tag

Washington—Rep. Clair Callan said Monday that he expects six Southern Nebraska counties to be declared drought disaster areas within the next day or two.

Callan said he has requested swift action on the applications for disaster declaration.

Likely to receive the drought disaster designation are Franklin, Jefferson, Pawnee, Thayer, Webster and Nuckolls Counties, Callan said.

Such designations would permit farmers in those counties to hay and graze diverted and conservation reserve acreage. The program would be administered by local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service committees.

Economics Center At NU Proposed

A national economist Monday called for the establishment of an economics center at the University of Nebraska which would be similar to some 25 centers now in operation across the U.S.

Such a center, according to Dr. Lewis Webster Jones of New York, chairman of the Joint Council on Economic Education, could coordinate the teaching of a more sophisticated form of economics to today's student.

In speaking to the board of directors of the Nebraska Economic Education Council, Dr. Jones recalled earlier days when the subject of economics was considered "ponderous even for college sophomores."

In today's changing world, however, an understanding of economics "is essential," he said, adding that he thought students should begin learning as early as the first grade.

The establishment of a center at Nebraska would bring together men in many fields of economics, he said. Their combined efforts could make learning economics exciting, Dr. Jones said.

The visiting economist was introduced to the board of directors of the Nebraska Council on Economic Education by Chancellor Clifford M. Harbin, newly elected chairman of the Council which is composed of representatives of industry, education and labor throughout the state.

The Elks, Jaycees, Havlock businessmen and Good-year Tire and Rubber Co. employees are co-sponsoring a car safety check on Sunday from noon to 5 p.m.

The ten-point check will include brakes, front lights, rear lights, steering, tires, exhaust system, glass, windshield wipers, rear view mirror and horn.

The check will take place at the following locations: 40th and Vine Sts., Cotner and Holdrege, Union Bank (College View), So. 16th east of the Capitol, 42nd and Randolph, 17th & E, and 60th and Havlock Ave.

In other action, two new vice chairmen were elected from the board of directors. They were Anton F. Munch, Omaha, labor, and Harry Pumphrey, Wisner, agriculture.

Also, Robert Runice, Omaha, chairman of the finance committee, was elected treasurer of the council. A $50,000 operating budget was also adopted by the council. Funds for the budget are obtained through private, voluntary contributions.

NU Given Grant Toward Women's Gym

The University of Nebraska Monday was awarded a federal grant of $714,033 toward construction of a new women's physical education building expected to cost $2,142,100.

The balance of the cost is expected to be obtained from state funds.

Word of the grant was given Rep. Clair Callan in Washington by the Office of Education, Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The grant was made under provisions of the Higher Education Facilities Act of 1963.

The Nebraska Higher Education Facilities Commission had recommended last March that the women's physical education building grant be one of several receiving top priority for the current fiscal year.

The site of the building will be the present women's athletic field on 14th and Vine. It is hoped that Contracting will begin early this fall.

Republicans Condemn Young GOP 'Rat Finks'

Washington (AP)—The Republican National Committee publicly censured the controversial New Jersey "rat finks" Monday and then moved to tighten control over the executive committee of the Young Republicans.

Hours after the committee voted to condemn the "rat finks" for "their acts of bigotry," GOP National Chairman Ray Bliss and Young Republican Chairman Thomas Van Sickle announced agreement on a series of steps aimed at coordinating the activities of the two groups.

They announced that: —For the first time two members of the Republican National Committee would be elected to the Young Republican National Committee.

—Lower Age Limit —The 1967 convention of the Young Republicans will be asked to lower the age limit of members to 34.

—The chairman of the Young Republicans will appoint an executive director with the advice and consent of the GOP national committee.

—In areas of conflict, the national chairman of the Young Republicans will respect the office of state Republican committee and will work with them to resolve the problems.

"This is the result of a mutual desire to try and coordinate our activity and eliminate sources of contention," Bliss said.

Pronouncing himself satisfied with the new arrangement, the national chairman said the new rules mean there will be somebody among the Young Republicans "to sort of give them guidelines."

Key Issues Named At another point in the joint news conference with Van Sickle, Bliss said a new GOP poll now being completed indicates that the key issues this fall will be the cost of living, the Viet Nam war and the administration's antipoverty program.

He also said the latest poll indicates that President Johnson's popularity had dipped below the 46% reported in the Gallup poll of June 5.

The move against the "rat finks" may have ended Republican debate over what to do about the Young Republican group, which has been accused of singing anti-Semitic and racist songs at private and public parties.

Although Wilson did not mention the Communist Party by name, his inference was clear. He said it would not succeed in bringing Britain to its knees.

There are no card-carrying Communists on the NUS executive council but some members are known to have Red leanings.

One, Gordon Norris, last week called for a total boycott of British shipping. The move was condemned by the executive council.

In his Parliament speech, Wilson bluntly told the seamen they would get no better settlement than the last offer no matter how long the strike lasted.

5% Tax 'Sacrifice'

Kampala, Uganda (AP)—Uganda's new budget calls for a five per cent income tax. In presenting the plan to parliament, Finance Minister L. Kalule Setalla said, "We should all willingly accept this heavy sacrifice, remembering that every penny will go towards the country's development."

In speaking to the board of directors of the Nebraska Economic Education Council, Dr. Jones recalled earlier days when the subject of economics was considered "ponderous even for college sophomores."

In today's changing world, however, an understanding of economics "is essential," he said, adding that he thought students should begin learning as early as the first grade.

The establishment of a center at Nebraska would bring together men in many fields of economics, he said. Their combined efforts could make learning economics exciting, Dr. Jones said.

The visiting economist was introduced to the board of directors of the Nebraska Council on Economic Education by Chancellor Clifford M. Hardin, newly elected chairman of the Council which is composed of representatives of industry, education and labor throughout the state.

Safety Check-Up For Cars Slated

The Elks, Jaycees, Have-lock businessmen and Good-year Tire and Rubber Co. employees are co-sponsoring a car safety check on Sunday from noon to 5 p.m.

The ten-point check will include brakes, front lights, rear lights, steering, tires, exhaust system, glass, windshield wipers, rear view mirror and horn.

The check will take place at the following locations: 40th and Vine Sts., Cotner and Holdrege, Union Bank (College View), So. 16th east of the Capitol, 42nd and Randolph, 17th & E, and 60th and Have-lock Ave.

In other action, two new vice chairmen were elected from the board of directors. They were Anton F. Munch, Omaha, labor, and Harry Pumphrey, Wisner, agriculture.

Also, Robert Runice, Omaha, chairman of the finance committee, was elected treasurer of the council. A $50,000 operating budget was also adopted by the council. Funds for the budget are obtained through private, voluntary contributions.

Latlats Lose Land

Port Moresby, New Guinea (AP)—The Latlat people of New Britain have lost a legal battle to continue farming 690 acres of land that rose from the sea 29 years ago. The supreme court has ruled the land, once a shallow fishing reef of the Latlat community near Rabaul, belongs to Papua-New Guinea. It rose in a volcanic explosion in 1937 that killed 400 persons. Two years later the Latlats began farming it.

Missiles To Get Better

Washington (AP)—A technological base now being laid may in the next few months become the foundation for an array of newer, bigger, and more sophisticated intercontinental ballistic missiles.

The Air Force has allotted $10 million for the fiscal year starting July 1 to study future strategic missile systems.

Several projects now under way could contribute to development of a missile which would carry about twice the payload of the presently deployed Minute-Man ICBM's, and still have roughly the same range of 7,000 miles.

More significantly, however, the improved ICBM's would include several more advanced penetration aids and multiple warheads which Pentagon officials believe would insure penetrating any enemy antimissile defense system.

6 South Nebraska Counties To Get Drought Disaster Tag

Washington—Rep. Clair Callan said Monday that he expects six Southern Nebraska counties to be declared drought disaster areas within the next day or two.

Callan said he has requested swift action on the applications for disaster declaration.

Likely to receive the drought disaster designation are Franklin, Jefferson, Pawnee, Thayer, Webster and Nuckolls Counties, Callan said.

Such designations would permit farmers in those counties to hay and graze diverted and conservation reserve acreage. The program would be administered by local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service committees.

of suburban areas

Greetings to returning travelers, new residents, visiting relatives and friends who characterize the talk of suburbia today.

FIENE HEIGHTS

Among Lincoln's junior globetrotters is seven-year-old Terri Krivosha who returned this weekend from a trip to Washington, D.C. Terri accompanied her father, Norman Krivosha on a business trip and visited friends, former Lincoln residents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ebert and their daughter, Andrea, 6. Terri left her mother and sister, Rhonda, 5, in charge of the house while she was away.

The guest room at the Harold Beers' home recently was occupied by visiting Mrs. Richard Wicker and daughter, Michelle, 2. Mrs. Wicker is Mrs. Beers' San Francisco sibling. The visit was occasioned by the graduation of Mrs. Wicker's sister Leanne Beers, from Southeast.

PARK MANOR

Among other welcoming guests are Mr. and Mrs. William A. Moore who expect their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Reis, home, June 22. The Reises, who have been teaching and attending school in California for three years, will visit in Lincoln for three weeks.

Coinciding vacations prompted the Elgin Dovenbergers to prepare for out-of-town relatives and a family reunion. The guests were Mrs. Dovenberger's brothers and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. George Mitchell of Duluth, Minn. and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Mitchell of Aberdeen, S.D. They arrived Sunday.

The Marvin Lyman home also opened its doors to travelers when friends from Denver stop over on an eastward trip Friday. The overnight guests were Mrs. Ruth Logue and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Schwindt and their teen-age sons, Mark and Rick.

Maj. (Ret.) and Mrs. Forrest Ball entertain throughout this week as they host Mrs. Ball's niece, Miss Mary Potter, a Missouri State University coed. After her stay in Lincoln, Mary will continue a westward trek from her Iowa homeland to Mexico City where she will spend the remainder of the summer vacationing and attending school.

KIMBERLY HEIGHTS

A welcome home was extended to former Lincoln residents, Lt. and Mrs. Allan Brown of Lubbock AFB, Tex. The Browns came to town for the wedding of Virginia Guenzel and Mrs. Brown's brother, Kyle Johnson. After the weekend festivities, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Brown and their daughter, Leslie, 12, joined the junior Browns for the return trip and a short vacation in Lubbock.

Portsmouth, N.H., was only a brief home for former Lincoln residents, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Richard A. Mitchell. Mrs. Mitchell and her daughters, Cheryl, 20, and Debbie, 17, will be holding down the fort at 2601 South 39th St. while Mitchell does the same in Viet Nam.

PRAIRIE VALLEY

Welcome mats around Antelope circle are out to new residents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Macaulay, formerly of North Carolina. The Macaulays have two daughters, Pat, a coed at the University of North Carolina and who now is working for the summer at Grand Lake, Colo., and a married daughter who remains in Charlotte.

PLANS early autumn wedding

Of interest to both campus and town circles this morning is the announcement being made by Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Grefe of New Vernon, N.J., of the betrothal of their daughter, Marjorie Diane, to Gary Morris Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene E. Cook of St. Paul, Minn., and grandson of Mrs. S. C. Morris of Lincoln.

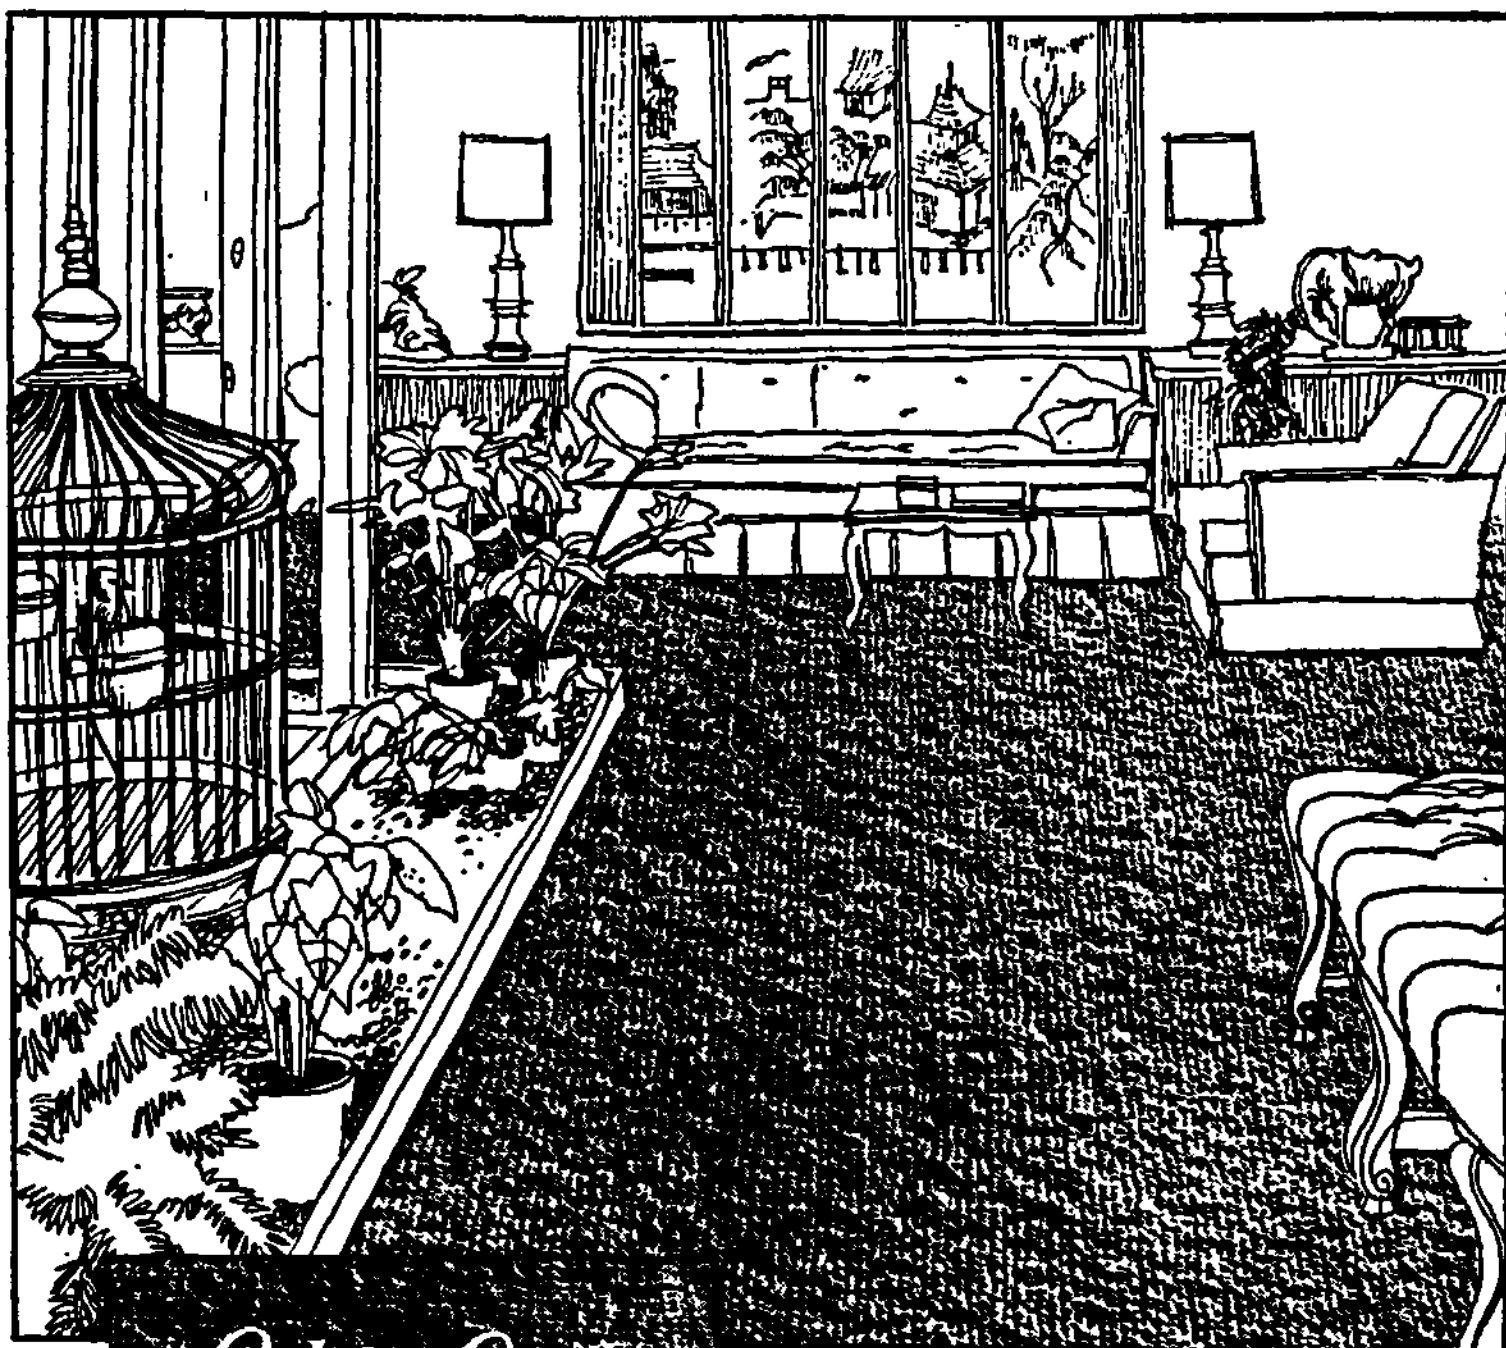

The wedding will take place in September.

A graduate of Smith College, Northampton, Mass., the bride-elect attended the Rudolf Steiner Schule in Munich, Germany, and La Chatelaine, Neuchatel, Switzerland, and currently is employed at the Center for International Studies at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass.

Mr. Cook is a graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University, where he served as president of the student body, and is completing studies at Harvard University Law School, Boston, Mass.

BRIDE at chapel service

Arrangements of greenery decorated the chancel of the Wesley Foundation Chapel on the University of Nebraska campus, Sunday afternoon, June 19, for the wedding of Miss Frances Emily Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Williams of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Alan Gerald Dexter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Dexter of Central City. The service was solemnized at 3 o'clock by the Rev. Bruce McSpadden.

Sheath frocks of aqua crepe were worn by Mrs. William Franek of Boulder, Colo., as the matron of honor; and the bridesmaids, Miss Valerie Leech, Cozad; and Miss Joan Dexter, Central City, sister of the bridegroom.

Tom Thurber of Ames, Iowa, served Mr. Dexter as best man, and seating the guests were Roger Schwabauer, Overland Park, Kan.; Ray Stevens, Jr., Cal Messersmith and Don Hanway, Jr.

The bride selected white silk crepe for her wedding gown. Venice lace appliqued the high-rising waist of the long-sleeved bodice, and the slim skirt was completed by a panel train of silk organza bordered with the lace. Her illusion veil was held by a Dior bow of crepe, and she carried a modern arrangement of white orchids and pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Dexter will reside in Urbana, Ill., where the bridegroom is studying for his doctorate at the University of Illinois. He received his Bachelor's and Master's degrees from the University of Nebraska, where he is a member of Farm House fraternity, Sigma Xi, Alpha Zeta and Gamma Sigma Delta honoraries. A graduate of the University of Nebraska, from which she received her Master's degree this month, Mrs. Dexter is a member of Pi Lambda Theta and Phi Beta Lambda honoraries.

FORMER coed is bride-elect

Announcement is being made this morning of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Margaret Lehl, daughter of John P. Lehl, and the late Mrs. Lehl, to Sam Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Thomas of Sutherland.

Plans are being made for a wedding on Aug. 20.

The bride-elect is a June graduate of the University of Nebraska, where she is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority and Pi Lambda Theta honorary.

TALK of the town

Marshall Smith just has to be in trouble because any woman golfer who read Mr. Smith's article in the most recent edition of Life Magazine is sure to be gunning for him. Under a heading "Advice for Women Golfers—Get Lost", Mr. Smith goes to town on the female of the species who dares to step foot in—and on—what Mr. Smith fondly believes is a man's world—the golf course.

You have to read it to believe it. According to Mr. Smith women golfers are jealous, envious, throatcutters, vindictive—and a few other choice things.

Mr. Smith may know his golf, but apparently he never has heard that there is a place paved with good intentions that hath no fury like a woman scorned.

Enough of Mr. Smith and his potential problems—Right now we have something else to mention—a coffee next Saturday morning for which Mrs. Harry Flansburg and Mrs. Vance Traphagen will be hostesses when they compliment Mrs. Robert Grainger of Salinas, Calif., who, with Mr. Grainger and their sons, are the house guests of Mrs. Grainger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. White.

Delta Delta Delta circles of a few years back will be interested in the fact that Mrs. Jack Scanlon (Martha Davis) and her four sons—Jack, Dick, Tom and Mark, arrived on Sunday from Hamilton, Ohio. During their two weeks stay in Lincoln Mrs. Scanlon and her sons will be the guests of Mrs. Scanlon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Davis. Also a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Davis is Mrs. Davis' niece, Mrs. Carl Boyer of Des Plaines, Ill.

And in town from Newport News, Va., are Mr. and Mrs. Leland A. Imig who are the house guests of Mrs. Imig's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Backstrom. Mr. Imig, by the way, received his Master's degree in mechanical engineering from the Virginia Polytechnic Institute in June, and now is associated with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

We can't let the day pass without news of a bride-elect—We have in mind Miss Mary Morrow whose marriage to Ens. Lawrence J. Arth will be solemnized on July 2.

On Thursday Miss Morrow will be complimented by Mrs. J. William Mowbray and Mrs. C. Robert Mowbray when they entertain at a brunch at the Lincoln Country Club.

Last Sunday found Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Gunlick on their way to Thailand where they will spend the next two years with the Peace Corps.

Mr. and Mrs. Gunlick who recently completed their Peace Corps training at California State Teacher's College in Los Angeles, were in town for a visit with Mrs. Gunlick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Delmore Phelps. And also visited Mr. Gunlick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Gunlick.

FLOOR COVERING, 6TH FLOOR DOWNTOWN, LOWER LEVEL GATEWAY

The marriage of Miss Patricia Weskamp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Weskamp, to James W. Beem of Lincoln, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beem of Tucson, Ariz., was solemnized Saturday morning, June 18, at St. John's Church. The lines of the service were read at 11 o'clock by the Rev. Thomas A. Munk.

Empire frocks of dotted Swiss over taffeta in mist green trimmed with Cluny lace were worn by the attendants, Miss Marilyn Holton, who was the maid of honor, and the bridesmaid, Miss Susan Crow. They carried crescent bouquets of yellow roses.

Serving as best man was Robert M. Beem, and the ushers were David Beem, Tucson, Ariz., and Michael Weskamp.

The bride's gown was fashioned of Alencon lace and silk organza in traditional white. The long-sleeved bodice of lace was designed with a scalloped sabrina neckline, and appliques of the lace trimmed the slender skirt of organza and were repeated on the panel train which extended to chapel length. A crown of jeweled lace petals held her circular veil, and she carried a white prayer book ornamented with a white orchid and valley-lilies.

Mr. and Mrs. Beem will make their home in Lincoln.

ATTENDANTS

Naming the members of her bridal party this morning is Miss Norma Jean Rademacher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Rademacher, whose marriage to Gerald P. Mannion will be solemnized on Saturday, June 25.

Miss Kathy Rademacher will attend her sister as maid of honor for the high noon service, which will take place at the Cathedral Of The Risen Christ, and her bridesmaids will be Miss Kathy Mannion of Randolph, and Miss Ruth Ann West. Mrs. Michael Woods will be the bridesmatron.

Serving Mr. Mannion as best man will be Leonard Widholm of Omaha, and seating the guests will be Dennis Mannion, Huntington Park, Calif.; Jerry Biewend, Downey, Calif.; and Paul Mannion.

Included among recent courtesies honoring the University of Nebraska coed was the miscellaneous shower for which Miss Judy York, Miss Mary Pat Hanigan and Miss Lynn Robinson were hostesses at the home of Miss York.

Announcing plans for a late June wedding is Miss Bernice Kathryn Cernohlavek, who will become the bride of LeRoy F. Goemann on Saturday, June 25.

The soon-to-be bride has chosen her sister, Mrs. Ralph E. Fisher of Omaha, as her matron of honor for the 9 o'clock morning service, to be solemnized at the Catholic Church in Prague. Her bridesmaids will be Miss Nancy Eno of Albuquerque, N.M., and Miss Anita Armstrong.

Ralph E. Fisher of Omaha, will serve as best man, and the ushers will be Michael Clancy and Stanley Hurren.

OpenHouse

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Oquist on their 50th wedding anniversary, an open house will be held next Sunday afternoon at the First Evangelical Covenant Church at 6024 L.

Feminine members of the congregation will serve as hostesses, and friends of the couple are asked to attend between the hours of 2:30 o'clock and 5 o'clock, without further invitation.

REAL ESTATE TIPS

Q. Before too long the leaves will be falling & again I will be raking the leaves. Can I ask my NEIGHBORS to rake my lawn for me? What can I do? Can I ask him to rake my yard or cut down his trees? A. Mix yourself a cold drink and try to enjoy sitting in the HOT SUN. Then sit in the shade of your neighbor's tree. Makes a difference doesn't it? He doesn't blow the leaves in your yard.

DEAR ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 37. My husband died 3 years ago, leaving me with a 14-year-old son I'll call Joel. I loved my husband dearly, but he had been incurably ill for a year and suffered terribly, so his death was a blessing. Joel took it hard as he and his father had been great pals. I made Joel "man-of-the-house." He became my "beau" and escorted me in place of his father. I let him handle the money when we went marketing. He took over surprisingly well.

About 6 months ago I started seeing a 44-year-old widower, Abby. I never thought I could be so happy again. He is kind and gentle, and he adores me. I really care for him, too, and he wants to marry me. I asked Joel how he felt about my remarrying, and he is violently opposed to the idea. He enjoyed being the "man-of-the-house" and doesn't want to go back to being a little boy again. My son comes first, but I know I could never find a better man, and I don't want to spend the rest of my life alone. Yet how can I marry a man knowing it will break my son's heart?

DIFFICULT DECISION
DEAR ABBY: Marry the man. It was a mistake to cast your son in the role of substitute husband. No wonder he regards another man in your life as a rival and a threat. Encourage Joel to make a social life of his own among his contemporaries. His attitude is understandably adolescent, but with maturity he will be less hurt and more realistic.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell me if I am wrong for feeling the way I do? When I got married, my aunt and uncle gave my husband and me a garbage pail for a wedding gift. I accepted it, but took it as an insult. I remain, very truly yours,

"INSULTED"
DEAR ABBY: While it may not have been the most glamorous gift, it was certainly one of the most practical. I see nothing insulting about a useful gift given in good faith.

ADK Conference

Meeting in Omaha on Monday and Tuesday are delegates representing midwest chapters of Alpha Delta Kappa sorority, who are attending the 1966 conference of the sorority's North Central Region.

Highlighting the two-day conference will be an address by Dr. Ruth I. Golden of Highland Park, Mich., international president of the honorary for women teachers, who recently was featured in Time Magazine for her work with the Changing Dialects Research Project.

Also participating in the conference program are Mrs. Agnes Shipman Robertson, executive director, and Mrs. Marie Neal, executive secretary-treasurer, both of Kansas City, Mo.

Presiding officer is Mrs. Lillian Blakey, Marshalltown, Iowa, vice president of the North Central Region, which includes the seven-state area of Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota.

Reports will be made on the sorority's altruistic projects, which include sponsorship of foreign students for their final year of teacher-training in United States colleges and universities. Each of the sorority's eight regions currently is sponsoring one student, and the North Central Region is assisting Miss Suzanne Pluss of Schaffhausen, Switzerland, a student at Iowa State University at Ames.

Opening lead — queen of clubs.

Cards tell a story: what you have to be able to do is read the message. Sometimes the message is not 100% clear, but, even so, good judgment will more often than not unscramble the text.

This hand occurred in a team match. At both tables South got to four spades, and at both tables South went down one on the same sequence of plays.

West led the queen of clubs, taken with the ace. East returned a heart and declarer played low, losing to the king. Back came a heart which East ruffed, and East then took the setting trick with the ace of diamonds.

Actually the contract could have and should have been made.

It is by no means far-fetched for declarer to read the heart return at trick two as a singleton.

The big clue comes from the opening lead of the queen of clubs. This lead indicates that East has seven clubs, and, correspondingly, a marked shortage in hearts. Certainly it cannot be assumed that East would play a heart at trick two if he had the king, and going up with the ace must therefore be the right play on any rational basis.

South then cashes the ace of spades and king of clubs, and follows this with the key play of ruffing the jack of clubs in dummy. Then he plays a low diamond. East cannot afford to go up with the ace, so declarer wins the trick with the queen.

Now South puts East into the lead with a trump and East must either yield a ruff and discard or else establish the kind of diamonds as a trick.

The reading of the club distribution is based on the assumption that if West had had the Q-x-x or Q-x-x-x of clubs, he would have made the conventional lead of his lowest club, not the queen. It follows, therefore, that East must have seven (possibly eight) clubs.

CHOSE morning ceremony

The marriage of Miss Patricia Weskamp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Weskamp, to James W. Beem of Lincoln, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beem of Tucson, Ariz., was solemnized Saturday morning, June 18, at St. John's Church. The lines of the service were read at 11 o'clock by the Rev. Thomas A. Munk.

Empire frocks of dotted Swiss over taffeta in mist green trimmed with Cluny lace were worn by the attendants, Miss Marilyn Holton, who was the maid of honor, and the bridesmaid, Miss Susan Crow. They carried crescent bouquets of yellow roses.

Serving as best man was Robert M. Beem, and the ushers were David Beem, Tucson, Ariz., and Michael Weskamp.

The bride's gown was fashioned of Alencon lace and silk organza in traditional white. The long-sleeved bodice of lace was designed with a scalloped sabrina neckline, and appliques of the lace trimmed the slender skirt of organza and were repeated on the panel train which extended to chapel length. A crown of jeweled lace petals held her circular veil, and she carried a white prayer book ornamented with a white orchid and valley-lilies.

Mr. and Mrs. Beem will make their home in Lincoln.

ATTENDANTS

Naming the members of her bridal party this morning is Miss Norma Jean Rademacher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Rademacher, whose marriage to Gerald P. Mannion will be solemnized on Saturday, June 25.

Miss June Rademacher will attend her sister as maid of honor for the high noon service, which will take place at the Cathedral Of The Risen Christ, and her bridesmaids will be Miss Kathy Mannion of Randolph, and Miss Ruth Ann Wiest. Mrs. Randolph Woods will be the bridesmatron.

Serving Mr. Rademacher as best man will be Leonard Widholm of Omaha, and seating the guests will be Dennis Mannion, Huntington Park, Calif.; Jerry Biewend, Downey, Calif.; and Paul Mannion.

Included among recent courtesies honoring the University of Nebraska coed was the miscellaneous shower for which Miss Judy York, Miss Mary Pat Hanigan and Miss Lynn Robinson were hostesses at the home of Miss York.

Announcing plans for a late June wedding is Miss Bernice Kathryn Cernohlavek who will become the bride of LeRoy F. Goemann on Saturday, June 25.

The soon-to-be bride has chosen her sister, Mrs. Ralph E. Fisher of Omaha, as her matron of honor for the 9 o'clock morning service, to be solemnized at the Catholic Church in Prague. Her bridesmaids will be Miss Nancy Eno of Albuquerque, N.M., and Miss Anita Armstrong.

Ralph E. Fisher of Omaha, will serve as best man, and the ushers will be Michael Clancy and Stanley Hurren.

OpenHouse

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Oquist on their 50th wedding anniversary, an open house will be held next Sunday afternoon at the First Evangelical Covenant Church at 6244 L.

Feminine members of the congregation will serve as hostesses, and friends of the couple are asked to attend between the hours of 2:30 o'clock and 5 o'clock, without further invitation.

REAL ESTATE TIPS

Q. Before too long the leaves will be falling & again I will be raking the leaves of my NEIGHBORS tree off my lawn. What can I do? Can I ask him to rake my yard or cut down his tree?
A. Mix yourself a cold drink and try to enjoy sitting "A REALTOR" in the HOT SUN. Then sit in the shade of your neighbor's tree. Makes a difference doesn't it? He doesn't blow the leaves in your yard.

DEAR ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 37. My husband died 3 years ago, leaving me with a 14-year-old son I'll call Joel. I loved my husband dearly, but he had been incurably ill for a year and suffered terribly, so his death was a blessing. Joel took it hard as he and his father had been great pals. I made Joel "man-of-the-house." He became my "beau" and escorted me in place of his father. I let him handle the money when we went marketing. He took over surprisingly well.

About 6 months ago I started seeing a 44-year-old widower. Abby, I never thought I could be so happy again. He is kind and gentle, and he adores me. I really care for him, too, and he wants to marry me. I asked Joel how he felt about my remarrying, and he is violently opposed to the idea. He enjoyed being the "man-of-the-house" and doesn't want to go back to being a little boy again. My son comes first, but I know I could never find a better man, and I don't want to spend the rest of my life alone. Yet how can I marry a man knowing it will break my son's heart?

DIFFICULT DECISION DEAR ABBY: Marry the man. It was a mistake to cast your son in the role of substitute husband. No wonder he regards another man in your life as a rival and a threat. Encourage Joel to make a social life of his own among his contemporaries. His attitude is understandably adolescent, but with maturity he will be less hurt and more realistic.

On Baseball Arguments

Omaha — Cleaning up the College World Series and starting with National League umpire Harry Wendelstedt's comparison between the collegians and the major leaguers.

"I almost fell over in that first game I worked here," Wendelstedt related, "when one of the hitters turned around to me and said, 'Sir, wasn't that pitch a little high?' In the major leagues they turn around and growl, 'Where the — was that pitch?'"

Still speaking of disputing umpire's decisions, Wendelstedt, who is in his first year in the National League at the age of 27, recalls his first encounter with Mickey Mantle.

"The good ball players never give you any trouble," Wendelstedt notes. "It's the 240 hitter who always complains and he's got to complain because if he doesn't get a break here or there, he won't even be hitting .240."

"I remember the first time I met Mantle. I was working behind the plate in an exhibition game in Florida. I thought to myself, 'Here I am just a young rookie umpire calling balls and strikes on Mickey Mantle.'"

"I called a third strike on him and after I called it I knew it was low. It couldn't have been eight inches above the ground. But Mantle didn't say a word. He just walked back to the bench."

A Good Word, But

American League umpire Charlie Berry was involved in the biggest ruckus of the series, the one involving Southern Cal coach Rod Dedeaux when the rains were falling in the game against Ohio State.

Ohio State was leading 1-0 in the top of the fifth and if the game could have been called before USC had completed its time at bat, the O-State run would have been nullified.

USC pitcher Ron Cook was at bat and took his time getting to the plate with two out. After arriving at the plate, he delayed stepping into the batter's box and Berry ordered Steve Arlin to begin pitching with Cook outside the box.

This brought Dedeaux storming from the dugout as two strikes were called with Cook still waiting outside the box. He then stepped in and waved at a third strike.

After the game, Berry explained, "Dedeaux said to me, 'You have denied me the unamicable right to get a pinch hitter into the game,' and I said to him, 'That's a pretty good word you just used, but I think you were trying to stall.'"

"We're going to play this ball game if we have to bring in boats." After USC had completed its time at bat, Berry delayed the game nearly an hour while waiting for the rains to stop.

Will Try Anything

Dedeaux, who is a Jekyll and Hyde character, will try anything to win a ball game, but as soon as it's over, he is a perfect gentleman.

When one of his batters appeared to be hit in the arm by a pitched ball in the second day's games, Dedeaux charged out of the dugout to protest after umpire Don Carrothers refused to award the batter first base.

"I told Dedeaux the ball hit the bat," Carrothers explained after the game. "And he said, 'It hit him in the arm. Here, I'll show you.'"

"Dedeaux rolled the ball player's sleeve up and revealed a bruise on the inside of the elbow. He said, 'Look, that's where the ball hit him.'"

"I replied, 'Rod, that bruise has been there at least six weeks,' and he answered back, 'Well, I'll try anything,' as he headed back to the bench."

Most Quotable Quote

The most quotable quote of the series came from Orland Sims, Texas sports information director, when USC pitcher Cook stood outside the batter's box to take two strikes, then merely waved his bat at the third strike.

"He might as well have paid $1.75 and been sitting up in the stands with the rest of the fans," Sims cracked.

Palmer Blows Up For Second Consecutive Day

San Francisco (AP)—Bill Casper struck back with birdie putts of 25 and 35 feet and moved coldly through the wreckage of another monstrous blowup by Arnold Palmer Monday for a four-stroke victory in the 18-hole playoff for the 66th National Open Golf Championship.

Casper fired a one-under 69 over the 6,719-yard, par 70 Olympic Lake course while Palmer, shaken and almost glassy-eyed by the collapse of his game, struggled in with a 73.

The 34-year-old Casper climaxed his dramatic comeback by lacing an approach shot to within 3½ feet and then sinking one putt for a birdie on the final hole.

It was a case of blowup striking twice for Palmer, the game's leading all-time money winner, who saw an imposing seven-stroke lead with nine holes to play go up in the smoke of bogeys in Sunday's final round.

This enabled Casper to tie for the title at 278 and force Palmer into his third playoff in five years. Arnie lost to Jack Nicklaus in 1962 and he finished third behind Julius Boros and Jacky Cupit at Brookline, Mass., in 1963.

Golf historians called Palmer's collapse Sunday the greatest in the annals of the game, and it was almost duplicated on this bright, sunny day before a gallery of 12,000.

Two-up through nine holes and playing superbly, Palmer hit a patch of bogeys, starting at the 11th and four in the space of six holes. He was a punch-drunk beaten warrior when he trudged up to the final green.

Casper, rated the sport's most dangerous putter, contributed to Palmer's slide by knocking in a 25-foot putt on the 11th hole where he levelled the match and rolling in a monster of 35 feet at the 12th where he began moving ahead. Arnie's collapse was emphasized on the 604-yard 16th hole where he took a double bogey 7 while Casper, three-putting, settled for a fat 6.

On the 17th, Palmer drove into the right rough, hit his second only 20 yards, had to play into the fairway and then threw his approach into a trap. He blasted out to within eight feet and missed his putt. Casper reached the green in three but three-putted from 25 feet, missing from 3½ feet.

Casper lost a stroke at the 17th, where he bogeyed, but he steered himself for a magnificent finishing birdie on the 337-yard 18th, with its gun-barrel fairway winding through a tunnel of trees beneath a hillside of fans.

Casper's victory, his second in the Open, won $25,000 plus a $1,500 playoff bonus. Palmer, whose all-time money winnings are near three-quarters of a million dollars, collected $12,500, plus $1,500.

Long one of the tour's most consistent players and always high in scoring averages and money winnings, Casper won his first Open in 1959 at Winged Foot in Mamaroneck, N.Y. There he one-putted 31 of the 72 greens.

He was a 220-pound fat man at the time and had never captured the imagination of the golfing public.

Two years ago, he went on an exotic diet including buffalo and bear meat, shrimp, avocados and berries, and dropped to 165 pounds. Recently he went back to 180.

It was a bitter disappointment for Palmer, who at 36 is attempting to disprove some predictions that he has let business enterprises dull his golf and that he is on the decline.

Putting his multi-million dollar enterprises in the background, he devoted more attention to golf this year and won one of the early events—the Los Angeles Open and the Tournament of Champions of Las Vegas.

In Monday's playoff, Palmer grabbed the early lead with an 18-foot birdie putt on the fourth hole after Casper had sunk one of the same length after coming out a trap to save a par on the second.

Arnie, his stampeding army going wild, moved two ahead at the fifth, when Casper hooked his drive into a tree, pitched short and took a bogey 5.

Both players birdied the seventh with magnificent recoveries from the rough—Casper pitching to within four feet and Palmer to within 3½. A six-foot putt for a birdie at the 138-yard eighth for Casper cut the advantage to one, but Arnie got it back on the ninth when Casper took three from the fringe for a bogey 5.

The two moved into the backside stretch of holes, which may be christened Arnie's Nightmare.

There Arnie lost 13 shots to the rallying Casper in the last two days. Palmer skyrocketed to a 39 while Casper had a 32 Sunday. Monday it was 40 for the shaken Palmer and 34 for the steady, imperturbable Casper.

The abrupt turn came at the 430-yard 12th. Casper rolled in a 25-foot putt, while Palmer, whose approach landed in the left rough, missed a four-foot putt and settled for a bogey 5.

In one quick swoop, the match was even.

Casper, his putting stick hot, stroked in a 35-foot snake at the 13th to go 1-up and then he started cushioning his lead with Palmer bogeys.

At the 14th, Palmer approached short, left his chip well below the hole and missed an eight-foot putt for a bogey. He trapped his tee shot at the 150-yard 15th—his jinx hole Sunday which he called the turning point of the final day—and blasted out 22 feet away. Another bogey, and he was now three down.

The gap was stretched to four at the 16th, cut back to three at the 17th where Casper had his second straight three-putt green of the tournament, and then increased to four with Casper's rifle shot at the flag on the 18th.

"It was an interesting week," Casper said quietly.

The pro from Peacock Gap Valley, Calif., was followed by his wife, Shirley; daughter, Linda Mara, 11, and son, Billy 9. Another son, Robert, 5, stayed home to watch it on television.

Romjue Wins Publinks Test

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Omaha — Lincoln's Larry Romjue shot just what he thought he would in winning the National Publinks Golf Qualifying here Monday, but he didn't shoot it quite the way he had thought.

Romjue tied for first with Wes Malnack of Omaha in the qualifying for the national tournament at four-over-par 148 over the Chapel Hills Country Club course, then won a playoff from Malnack on the third extra hole.

"That's about what I thought I would shoot," a tired Romjue said in discussing the 148. "But I thought it would be with rounds of about 73-75, not 67-81."

Romjue's five-under-par 67 on the morning round was a competitive course record at Chapel Hills as was his four-under-par 33 on the front side of that round.

"It could have been even lower," Romjue pointed out, referring to the front side 33. The Lincoln salesman left a birdie putt of seven feet just inches short on one hole and rimmed the cup with birdie putts of six feet on two other holes on the 3,822-yard, par-37 front side.

Romjue's only bogey on the morning round came on 16 where he took a four. But he got that stroke back and more when he hit a four-wood second shot and sank a 15-foot putt for an eagle on the 481-yard, par-5 18th.

After the record-breaking 67 in the morning, Romjue faded to a nine-over-par 81 in the afternoon as the 94-degree weather took its toll.

"I really got tired on those last few holes," he admitted. "I couldn't think and I was just hitting the ball, then dragging the bag and hitting the ball again."

Romjue finished bogey, bogey, bogey, double-bogey, bogey for the 36-hole total of 148, tying him with Malnack.

Romjue and Malnack will be joined by Omaha's Bob Mittera as Nebraska's three representatives to the national tournament in Milwaukee July 11-16.

Mittera had to win a playoff from Omaha's Jack Kendzior and Walt Smola for the third spot after the trio had tied at 150. Bill Gilmore of Omaha shot 149, but passed up going to the national tournament.

Among those failing to qualify was Dean Wilson of Omaha, who was runner-up in the national tournament two years ago. Wilson shot 72-80—152.

Mann, Wright, Rawls Head Women's Field

New York (AP)—Defending champion Carol Mann and four-time winners Mickey Wright and Betsy Rawls head a record field of 108 golfers entered Thursday in the 14th U.S. Women's Open Championship.

Patty Berg, who won the first Women's Open in 1946, will also be among the 55 professionals and 53 amateurs competing over the Hazeltine National Golf Club course at Chaska, Minn., June 30-July 1.

Mrs. Anne Quast Wells, three-time U.S. Women's Amateur champion, heads the amateur field.

Bryant Resting After Collapse

Los Angeles (AP)—Football Coach Paul Bear Bryant rested in a hospital Monday after he collapsed at the annual Pepperdine College coaching clinic.

The University of Alabama head coach had just begun a speech when he clutched his chest and cried out: "I don't know what it is—is there a doctor in the house?" Then he collapsed.

Bryant was taken to the college infirmary, then to View Park Community Hospital.

At the hospital, the wife of the 52-year-old coach said: "He doesn't look like or talk like it's something real serious. They are giving him glucose and oxygen now and making electrocardiograms. He talks clearly, and his color is good."

Later, the hospital said: "Mr. Bryant has an exhaustion syndrome as a result of which he fainted. His case is being studied and observed. No serious problems are evident at this point."

Bryant came to California Sunday and was to have left Tuesday for New York City to join a group of Birmingham business leaders at a news conference announcing architectural competition for a new civic center in Birmingham.

Bryant, head football coach at Alabama for eight years, has a lifetime coaching record of 160-51-14. He directed the Crimson Tide to national football championships in 1956, 1957 and 1958 and was named coach of the year in 1956.

At Alabama, Bryant's squads have compiled a 69-12-6 record.

Emerson Leads Seeded Entries

Wimbledon, England (AP)—Roy Emerson, the tough and wiry Australian shooting for his third Wimbledon title in succession, led a procession of six other seeds into the second round of the men's singles Monday.

It was a dull opening to the 80th tournament, with no upsets to raise the crowd's temperature on a chilly day.

Only one seed—fifth ranked John Newcombe of Australia—was in trouble. Newcombe trailed one set to two against countryman Ray Ruffels, but finally won 6-1, 3-6, 4-6, 6-4.

The only seed who did not play was Tony Roche, the hard-hitting Australian left-hander who came here with the Italian and French titles in his pocket and was rated the most likely man to upset Emerson.

Roche sprained his left ankle last week, scratched from the men's and mixed doubles here, and got a dispensation from the Wimbledon committee to postpone his first round.

He ran up against Isao Watanabe of Japan on a greasy court and dropped the opening set 5-7. The Japanese slipped in chasing a cross court shot in the second set, strained a stomach muscle, dropped three games and was forced to retire.

Emerson had no trouble in coasting to a 6-4, 6-4, 6-3, 50-minute win against the Canadian Harry Fauquier.

Fred Stolle, the beaten finalist here for the past three years and the fourth Australian in the seeded list, defeated the German Davis Cup player Ingo Buding 6-2, 6-2, 4-7, 6-2.

Cliff Drysdale, the only South African to be seeded, defeated the unknown Czech, Jan Kodet, 6-4, 6-4, 7-5.

match against an unknown Briton, Ted Beards, until Tuesday.

Both U.S. seeds, sixth-ranked Dennis Ralston and eighth-seeded Clark Graebner—came through without difficulty.

Graebner, of Beachwood, Ohio, a surprise name in the rankings and listed 13th in the United States, ran up against Martin Mulligan of Australia, a former finalist, and tamed him easily 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

Ralston, the No. 1 U.S. player from Bakersfield, Calif., dropped a set in beating U.S. junior champion Robert Lutz of Los Angeles, 7-5, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4, and found his service not working too well.

At one time Ralston had the crowd gasping by serving four double faults in a row, but he pulled himself together.

Of the other seeds, the only one who had trouble was Manuel Santana of Spain, seeded fourth.

He ran up against Isao Watanabe of Japan on a greasy court and dropped the opening set 5-7. The Japanese slipped in chasing a cross court shot in the second set, strained a stomach muscle, dropped three games and was forced to retire.

On Baseball Arguments

Omaha — Cleaning up the College World Series and starting with National League umpire Harry Wendelstedt's comparison between the collegians and the major leaguers.

"I almost fell over in that first game I worked here," Wendelstedt related, "when one of the hitters turned around to me and said, 'Sir, wasn't that pitch a little high?' In the major leagues they turn around and growl, 'Where the — was that pitch?'"

Still speaking of disputing umpire's decisions, Wendelstedt, who is in his first year in the National League at the age of 27, recalls his first encounter with Mickey Mantle.

"The good ball players never give you any trouble," Wendelstedt notes. "It's the .240 hitter who always complains and he's got to complain because if he doesn't get a break here or there, he won't even be hitting .240."

"I remember the first time I met Mantle. I was working behind the plate in an exhibition game in Florida. I thought to myself, 'Here I am just a young rookie umpire calling balls and strikes on Mickey Mantle.'"

"I called a third strike on him and after I called it I knew it was low. It couldn't have been eight inches above the ground. But Mantle didn't say a word. He just walked back to the bench."

A Good Word, But

American League umpire Charlie Berry was involved in the biggest ruckus of the series, the one involving Southern Cal coach Rod Dedeaux when the rains were falling in the game against Ohio State.

Ohio State was leading 1-0 in the top of the fifth and if the game could have been called before USC had completed its time at bat, the O-State run would have been nullified.

USC pitcher Ron Cook was at bat and took his time getting to the plate with two out. After arriving at the plate, he delayed stepping into the batter's box and Berry ordered Steve Arlin to begin pitching with Cook outside the box.

This brought Dedeaux storming from the dugout as two strikes were called with Cook still waiting outside the box. He then stepped in and waved at a third strike.

After the game, Berry explained, "Dedeaux said to me, 'You have denied me the unamicable right to get a pinch hitter into the game,' and I said to him, 'That's a pretty good word you just used, but I think you were trying to stall.'"

"We're going to play this ball game if we have to bring in boats." After USC had completed its time at bat, Berry delayed the game nearly an hour while waiting for the rains to stop.

Will Try Anything

Dedeaux, who is a Jekyll and Hyde character, will try anything to win a ball game, but as soon as it's over, he is a perfect gentleman.

When one of his batters appeared to be hit in the arm by a pitched ball in the second day's games, Dedeaux charged out of the dugout to protest after umpire Don Carrothers refused to award the batter first base.

"I told Dedeaux the ball hit the bat," Carrothers explained after the game. "And he said, 'It hit him in the arm. Here, I'll show you.'"

"Dedeaux rolled the ball player's sleeve up and revealed a bruise on the inside of the elbow. He said, 'Look, that's where the ball hit him.'"

"I replied, 'Rod, that bruise has been there at least six weeks,' and he answered back, 'Well, I'll try anything,' as he headed back to the bench."

Most Quotable Quote

The most quotable quote of the series came from Orland Sims, Texas sports information director, when USC pitcher Cook stood outside the batter's box to take two strikes, then merely waved his bat at the third strike. "He might as well have paid $1.75 and been sitting up in the stands with the rest of the fans," Sims cracked.

Palmer Blows Up For Second Consecutive Day

San Francisco (AP)—Bill Casper struck back with birdie putts of 25 and 35 feet and moved coldly through the wreckage of another monstrous blowup by Arnold Palmer Monday for a four-stroke victory in the 18-hole playoff for the 66th National Open Golf Championship.

Casper fired a one-under 69 over the 6,719-yard, par 70 Olympic Lake course while Palmer, shaken and almost glassy-eyed by the collapse of his game, struggled in with a 73.

The 34-year-old Casper climaxed his dramatic comeback by lacing an approach shot to within 3½ feet and then sinking one putt for a birdie on the final hole.

It was a case of blowup striking twice for Palmer, the game's leading all-time money winner, who saw an imposing seven-stroke lead with nine holes to play go up in the smoke of bogeys in Sunday's final round.

This enabled Casper to tie for the title at 278 and force Palmer into his third playoff in five years. Arnie lost to Jack Nicklaus in 1962 and he finished third behind Julius Boros and Jacky Cupit at Brookline, Mass., in 1963.

Golf historians called Palmer's collapse Sunday the greatest in the annals of the game, and it was almost duplicated on this bright, sunny day before a gallery of 12,000.

Two-up through nine holes and playing superbly, Palmer hit a patch of bogeys, starting at the 11th and four in the space of six holes. He was a punch-drunk beaten warrior when he trudged up to the final green.

Casper, rated the sport's most dangerous putter, contributed to Palmer's slide by knocking in a 25-foot putt on the 11th hole where he levelled the match and rolling in a monster of 35 feet at the 12th where he began moving ahead. Arnie's collapse was emphasized on the 604-yard 16th hole where he took a double bogey 7 while Casper, three-putting, settled for a fat 6.

On the 17th, Palmer drove into the right rough, hit his second only 20 yards, had to play into the fairway and then threw his approach into a trap. He blasted out to within eight feet and missed his putt. Casper reached the green in three but three-putted from 25 feet, missing from 3½ feet.

Casper lost a stroke at the 17th, where he bogeyed, but he steered himself for a magnificent finishing birdie on the 37-yard 18th, with its gun-barrel fairway winding through a tunnel of trees beneath a hillside of fans.

Casper's victory, his second in the Open, won $25,000 plus a $1,500 playoff bonus. Palmer, whose all-time money winnings are near three-quarters of a million dollars, collected $12,500, plus $1,500.

Long one of the tour's most consistent players and always high in scoring averages and money winnings, Casper won his first Open in 1959 at Winged Foot in Mamaroneck, N.Y. There he one-putted 31 of the 72 greens.

He was a 220-pound fat man at the time and had never captured the imagination of the golfing public.

At Alabama, Bryant's squads have compiled a 12-6 record.

Bryant has a reputation as a college football rejuvenator and reportedly has turned down large offers to become a pro coach.

Bryant, who has taken Alabama to bowl games for seven straight years, directed his team last year to a 9-1-1 record. On Jan. 1, the Tide defeated third-ranked Nebraska 39-28 in the Orange Bowl. Top-ranked Michigan State and runner-up Arkansas were defeated the same day, and Alabama was named No. 1 in a post-bowl Associated Press poll.

Bryant, born in Fordyce, Ark., enrolled at Alabama in 1931 and in 1934 was a right end on the undefeated squad which beat Stanford 29-13 in the 1935 Rose Bowl game. He was an assistant coach at Alabama until 1940, when he moved to Vanderbilt as an assistant under Red Sanders.

Houston (A) — Rusty Staub doubled home the tie-breaking run in the eighth inning as the Houston Astros defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers, 4-2, Monday night and handed Don Drysdale his fifth straight defeat.

Staub's double followed a leadoff single by Jim Wynn, who raced to second when Willie Davis fumbled his hit. Staub scored on a single by Chuck Harrison.

Drysdale, who allowed seven hits, now has a 4-9 record and has not won a game since May 30.

Drysdale was touched for an unearned run in the fifth inning after he dropped the ball while trying to tag Sonny Jackson on a grounder to first. Jackson stole second and proceeded to third when catcher John Roseboro threw wild. He scored on a single by Staub.

The Dodgers tied it in the eighth inning. Houston's Willie Davis hit a double to right field, scoring Staub and advancing Harrison to second. Houston's Don Lutz pitched the ninth inning, allowing no runs and striking out three.

Cardinals Sign Omaha's Bartee

Omaha, Neb. (A) — Jerry Bartee, Omaha Central High School shortstop, has signed with the St. Louis Cardinals of the National League, Central coach Tom Dineen said Monday.

Dineen said the Central baseball star, who hit .466 this season, will report to Sarasota, Fla., for a training session and then be assigned to a Cardinal farm club.

Bartee was a St. Louis free-agent draft choice.

A's Suffer 3-1 Setback To White Sox

Kansas City (A) — Tommie Agee tripled across a run in the fifth inning, then doubled and scored in the eighth as the Chicago White Sox defeated Kansas City, 3-1, Monday night.

Agee, who also singled in the third inning, belted the triple in the fifth after Ken Berry singled with one out and was sacrificed to second.

That gave the White Sox a 2-0 lead, but Kansas City cut it in the bottom of the fifth when Phil Roof homered.

Agee got the White Sox an insurance run in the eighth when he led off with a double, stole third and continued home when the throw from catcher Roof sailed into left field.

Don Buford's speed accounted for the first Chicago run in the first. With one out he singled to left, then stole second. After Tom McGraw walked, they worked a double steal.

Then John Romano popped behind third base. Shortstop Bert Campaneris caught the ball about 40 feet down the line and started running with it toward the infield.

For a moment it looked like a quick ending in the second. Ortiz slammed a right to the body and followed with a left to the chin. Bizzarro staggered back but came out of it and continued his mosquito-like attack.

Ken Witt's Hits Hallam, 11-7

Hallam — Ken Witt's of Lincoln posted an 11-7 American Legion Junior baseball win over Hallam Monday night, capitalizing on shoddy fielding by the hosts.

A big seven-run explosion in the second inning was aided by six Hallam errors.

Mike Bohaty came on in relief to get the pitching decision for Witt's, now 4-5 for the year.

The Witt's club tangles with Gerry's tonight at Sherman Field in a Cornhusker League contest.

Oliver Blast Lifts Braves Past Phillies

Atlanta (A) — Gene Oliver's two-run homer in the seventh inning, his second of the game, broke a 5-5 tie and gave Atlanta a 7-5 victory over Philadelphia Monday night.

The Phillies' Bill White had tied the score in the top of the inning with a three-run double after Tony Taylor reached first on a fielder's choice. John Callison singled and Richie Allen was hit by a pitch.

The Braves came back when Felipe Alou beat out an infield hit and Oliver followed with his home run.

Oliver hit his first homer in the fourth inning, and the Braves added two more runs on a walk to Denis Menke, a double by Felix Millan and a single by Tom Cloninger.

Unearned Runs Bring Nats Win Over Tribe

CLEVELAND FALTERS, 4-2

Washington (A) — Two unearned runs in the second inning and Doug Camilli's home run in the sixth helped the Washington Senators to a 4-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians Monday night.

Cards Hike Win Streak

St. Louis (A) — Ron Hunt's error led to two unearned St. Louis runs in the first inning as the Cardinals stretched their winning streak to four by handing the New York Mets their fourth straight loss 4-2 Monday night.

The Cards' three-run first began with Lou Brock drawing a walk, then stealing second and moving to third on Phil Gagliano's infield hit.

Curt Flood's single scored Brock and when second baseman Hunt dropped the relay throw at second base, Flood was safe. Tim McCarver's sacrifice fly and Mike Shannon's infield hit accounted for the unearned runs.

Dick Selma, the Mets' starting pitcher, then checked the Cardinals until the seventh when they scored another unearned run on Brock's infield single, his twenty-fifth steal in 28 tries this season. Eddie Bressoud's error and a wild pitch.

The Mets scored twice in the second inning on Cleon Jones' single, a walk, Johnny Lewis' single and Selma's sacrifice fly.

Midget No-Hitter

Steve Jackson hurled a no-hitter as his Randolph team defeated Roberts Park Monday in City Recreation Class A Midget baseball action.

The Senators took the series, three games to one, and knocked the Indians into third place, three games back of American League leading Baltimore.

Pete Richert, who won his eighth game, gave up a run in the second on a walk to Rocky Colavito, Fred Whitfield's double, and a sacrifice fly by Max Alvis. Colavito hit his seventh homer in the seventh inning.

Chico Salmon contributed two errors as the Senators scrambled for two runs in the third. Don Lock walked but was forced by Camilli.

Dick Nen then was safe when Salmon dropped his popup in short left for an error. Ed Brinkman grounded to Whitfield, whose throw to second went through Salmon for another error, Camilli scoring. Nen pulled a muscle and Bob Saverine, who ran for him, scored on Fred Valentine's double.

Saverine singled in the fourth, went to second on Alvis' throwing error, and scored on Brinkman's double to right.

Camilli's homer was his second of the year, both in this series.

CWA Triumphs Over David City

CWA erupted for five runs in the first inning and coasted to a 7-3 win over David City Monday night.

John Sampson had three hits and Harold Connick and Bill Cottrell two each for the winners to back George Osborn's two-hit pitching.

Jim Raschke, Russ Camilleri Wrestle Victims

Toledo, Ohio (A)—Russia suffered only one loss during the first day of action Monday and moved into good position to retain its World Greco Roman Wrestling Championships.

The only member of the eight man Soviet team near elimination was defending 154-pound champion Guennady Sapounov, who lost in the first round to Stevan Horuat of Yugoslavia.

The United States, which seldom sees Greco Roman wrestling except in international tournaments, lost its prime hope for a medal, Russ Camilleri, formerly of the Lincoln Air Force Base. The veteran 171.5 pounder was outpointed in the first round by Florea Cioprcila of Romania, and lost in the second round to Mohammed Fayaz of Iran.

Jim Raschke, former University of Nebraska grappler, was outpointed in the heavyweight division by Osmo Hekalo of Finland.

River Fishing Agreements Vary Between States

Anglers fishing Missouri River waters should keep in mind agreements differ between Nebraska and the various neighboring states, Game Commission Director M. O. Steen points out.

The main difference in the regulations between Nebraska and Iowa as compared to the Nebraska-Missouri agreement, lies in the fact that Nebraska-licensed fishermen may cross the river, fish from the Iowa bank or in Iowa-controlled waters of the Missouri.

The Nebraska-licensed anglers may not legally fish from Missouri soil, attach any lines or equipment to the Missouri side, or fish from Missouri-controlled waters of the river.

California Retains Hex Over Twins

Anaheim (AP)—A dropped fly ball by center fielder Tony Oliva helped California rally for three runs in the seventh inning Monday night as the Angels defeated the Twins for the eighth time in nine meetings this year, 5-3.

Singles by Tom Satriano and Paul Schaaf plus a wild pitch by loser Jim Grant, 5-9, put Angels at second and third with one out in the seventh and imperiled the Twins' 3-1 lead.

Oliva then dropped pinch hitter Willie Smith's sacrifice fly and two runs scored on the error. Smith took second on the play and scored the tie-breaking run on Ed Kirkpatrick's single.

Norm Siebern added a homer for the Angels in the eighth.

The victory went to reliever Lew Burdette, 4-1, who shut out the Twins in the sixth and seventh innings. Bob Lee finished up.

Harmon Killebrew and Don Mincher hit bases-empty homers for the Twins, who scored three runs in the first five innings off starter George Brunet. Cesar Tovar had two doubles and a single for Minnesota and drove in a run.

Morrison Wants Water Compact Debate

Cincinnati (UPI) — Gov. Frank B. Morrison of Nebraska Monday challenged his Republican senatorial opponent to debate him on the issue of forming a Missouri Valley compact for use of water resources in the Missouri River Basin.

Morrison hurried his challenge at Republican Sen. Carl F. Curtis at a news conference while here for the 5th annual Midwest governors' meet.

"I think it is essential for the senator to come to Nebraska immediately to explain his position," Morrison said.

Morrison, a Democrat, will oppose Curtis in the November election.

Urged To Go Slow

The Nebraska governor based his challenge on news reports that Curtis urged the 10 states in the Missouri Valley to go slow in forming a commission to deal with water problems in the area.

Curtis is quoted as saying such a commission might restrict the states and extend federal authority in the matter.

Curtis called the proposal for a commission for the Missouri River Basin "premature and ill-founded."

The plan "raises the specter of the old proposed Missouri Valley Authority," which he said basin states had fought off in the 1940s and 1950s.

Governor's Petition

Morrison and North Dakota Gov. William Guy have petitioned Interior Secretary Stewart Udall to form a Missouri Basin water and related land resources commission. Such a commission would replace the Missouri Basin Inter-Agency Committee and the Missouri River States Committee.

It would, Curtis said, be "highly federalized."

The commission would deal with planning and overseeing the basin's irrigation, power, flood control and recreation development.

"Nebraskans must see that nothing is done to jeopardize the availability of (their) underground water to Nebraska," he said, "and that nothing is done to place the federal government or other states in a position to pirate this valuable resource from our state."

All Approve

Morrison said all of the governors in the basin favor the commission plan, which was authorized under the 1962 National Water Resources Act.

"The senator didn't raise his voice against the act — at least not very loud — when it was approved by Congress," Morrison said. "Now he wants to make a political football out of it."

Morrison called upon his Republican rival to attend the meeting of state and federal agencies considering the proposal at Scottsbluff, Neb., this week.

"The senator's position is wrong, if I understand him correctly," Morrison said. "I think it is important that he come to Nebraska and explain his views. If he can't come to the meeting, I would like to share time with him discussing the issue in Omaha or some other city."

More State Voice

Morrison said the act was "created to give the states more voice in managing water problems in their areas."

States involved in the proposed compact are Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Iowa and Minnesota.

In Lincoln, State Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth said a planning commission would probably have little authority over underground water.

"I question whether a planning commission could get at our underground water," he said. Ruhnke is chairman of the Legislative Council's underground and surface water study committee.

Provide Control

"But if the irrigators do not provide for some control, the state will. And, if the state won't, the federal government will," he noted.

Ruhnke said he does not believe Nebraskans "want to view this commission with alarm, but we should take a good look at it."

Meanwhile, Eugene C. Reed, the University of Nebraska's director of conservation, said he believes "it's unlikely that a regular planning commission would control individual states to any degree."

Reed said he believes that "the commission would not control the (underground) waters unless the states would relinquish their destiny."

Governors Support States In Proposed Water Control

Cincinnati (AP) — Three Midwestern governors joined Monday in support of efforts to clean up streams under the separate river basin concept of water resources development.

They were Govs. Frank B. Morrison of Nebraska, Otto Kerner of Illinois and William L. Guy of North Dakota, all Democrats.

All advocated state participation rather than single federal control at a news session during the 13-state Midwest Governors' Conference here.

Guy said there are 15 major river basins in the United States and each state must plan its own water program.

"Unless the states take development responsibilities

there will be public pressure for more federal control."

"The time is here and now when the creation of a commission is necessary for the Missouri River Basin," Morrison said at the three-way news conference.

He asserted that such a move would be away from centralization of authority in Washington.

"Illinois favors a basin concept and has been working with other states along this line," Kerner said.

Guy said each state needs a basin commission to bring its plans for water resources into focus.

Guy said he already has conferred with other governors, including Minnesota Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag, conference chairman, on cooperative efforts.

All advocated state participation rather than single federal control at a news session during the 13-state Midwestern Governors' Conference here.

Guy said there are 15 major river basins in the United States and each state must plan its own water program.

"Unless the states take development responsibilities

there will be public pressure for more federal control."

"The time is here and now when the creation of a commission is necessary for the Missouri River Basin," Morrison said at the three-way news conference.

He asserted that such a move would be away from centralization of authority in Washington.

"Illinois favors a basin concept and has been working with other states along this line," Kerner said.

Guy said each state needs a basin commission to bring its plans for water resources into focus.

Guy said he already has conferred with other governors, including Minnesota Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag, conference chairman, on cooperative efforts.

County's 'Midnight Raid' Ruled As Civil Contempt

Richmond, Va. (AP) — A federal court of appeals found the Prince Edward County Board of Supervisors guilty of civil contempt Monday for a "midnight raid on the county treasury."

The ruling by the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals was in the dispersal, in the early-morning hours of Aug. 5, 1964, of $180,000 to parents of white school children.

In a majority opinion, the court noted that the funds — in the form of tuition grants — were dispersed in an operation that began late at night, Aug. 4. White parents made application during the night and, the court said, received their checks the next morning.

Schools Closed

At the time, the appeals court was considering a request for a permanent injunction halting payment of tuition grants in the county while public schools remained closed in the desegregation fight.

"Obviously, the aim was to thwart the impact of any adverse decree which might ultimately be forthcoming," the court said in an opinion written by Justice Albert V. Bryan.

The court ordered members of the board of supervisors to return the $180,000 to the county treasurer.

Exactly how the supervisors are to obtain the money was not specified.

Report To Court

The contempt citation was stayed for 90 days, after which the supervisors are to report to the court what they have done. The court said it will then decide what further orders might be needed.

Prince Edward, the only locality in the nation to abandon public schools rather than desegregate them, now has a nearly all-Negro public school system. All but a handful of the white children attend a private, white-only system that has functioned since the public school closing in 1959.

The county reopened its public schools in 1964 on orders of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Guerrillas in North

Boston (UPI) — J. Alan MacKay, a Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, urged the administration to support guerrilla warfare against communist North Viet Nam.

Romney Blasts Grants To States, Viet Nam Policy

From Press Reports
Cincinnati — Republican Gov. George Romney of Michigan accused the federal government Monday of "weakening" the states by distributing funds directly to cities and other local governments.

The governor, being mentioned prominently as a possible presidential candidate in 1968, coupled his blast at growing federal power with a plea for "more individual responsibility" during a busy day at the Midwest Governors Conference.

Later, in Cleveland, he said America still has time to "find an honorable solution" to the war in South Viet Nam "without a wider war — and hopefully with a short one."

Image Changing
"Most nations, even including our allies, no longer consider us dedicated to peace — what a pity and costly misfortune."

"But it is not too late, we still have time to learn from our mistakes..."

"But too often, American arms shored up tottering and unpopular regimes."

"Too often, American aid dollars struck to the fingers of corrupt, tyrannical rulers. Too often, American business rushed in to dominate local markets."

Strongest Statement
It was his strongest statement so far on U.S. foreign policy.

In Cincinnati, Romney said governors at their meetings always complained about the lack of state-federal coordination but "instead of the situation getting better, it is getting worse."

He said the "undercutting" of state governments through distribution of federal funds was the "central crisis" in our whole structure of government.

Several of the 12 governors indicated they would support Romney's resolution Wednesday calling upon the federal government to submit plans to the states for "co-ordination and review" before going ahead with them.

Romney was interrupted by Democratic Gov. Harold E. Hughes of Iowa, who said the problem gets back to the old question, "Where the hell is the money coming from?"

Callan Cites State's Personal Income Gain

Washington — Rep. Clair Callan said "the progress of farm prosperity in Nebraska is reflected in the state's personal income gain of 11.6% during the first quarter of 1965."

This gain is the fourth highest increase among the 50 states, the First District Democrat reported.

Nebraska's cash farm receipts were up 30% in the first quarter of this year while retail sales in March were up 13.3% from a year ago, Callan said.

Annual Compilation
Substantial progress in hiking farm income is indicated in the annual food costs-farm prices compilation of the House of Representatives Committee on Agriculture, Callan said. The report he said shows:

18 Years Given Organizer White

Leicester, England (AP) — James Edward White pleaded guilty in Leicester Monday to organizing the carrying off of the loot from Britain's $7 million train robbery in 1963. He was sentenced to 18 years in prison.

White was arrested April 21 in a seaside resort 70 miles from London where he had been living under the name of Robert Lane. Most of the band has been rounded up but some ringleaders still are fugitives. Less than $1 million of the loot has been recovered.

Going to move? Then notify the Circulation Dept. so you won't miss your paper. Be sure to give both old and new address.

Not Scapegoats

—Efforts to make farmers the scapegoats of inflation in the cost of living have been defeated.

—Two new developments, the Food for Freedom legislation and a 15% increase in the wheat allotment, dramatize the upswing in expanding production.

DON'T BE SKINNY

Don't be thin, shabby and underweight. Be strong and healthy. You can gain 10 to 20 pounds by adding 10 to 20 cups of water to your diet. Water is the most important nutrient in your diet. It keeps your body cool, lubricates your joints, and helps you digest your food. Water is also the best way to lose weight. It helps you burn fat and keeps your metabolism going. Water is the key to a healthy, happy life. Don't be skinny. Be strong and healthy. Add 10 to 20 cups of water to your diet today.

"There are more ways of killing a cat than stuffing it with butter," said my grandma. She was full of such wise quotations.

However, there is no better way. For the law can hardly hang a lady who is only guilty of buttering the toast for her ever-loving. It is safe. Sure. And the insurance people pay off like a slot machine. Do not pistol the black-guard, lady. Butter his pancakes.

Well, many a power of industry has had his juice shut off by saturated fats. It gives you cholesterol. And that's bad for you.

We are discovering all kinds of things that are bad for you. Doctors think that is good — "We are on the verge of medical breakthroughs that will dwarf our present knowledge," says a medical magazine.

I read popular medical magazines in the doctor's office. By the time, the girl says, "Doctor is ready!" — I have developed all the symptoms I have read.

I could diagnose my own case and go home.

For years I buttered my toast and ate it. "It makes you grow big and strong," said grandma. "Eat the crusts. It makes your hair curly."

I grew up and did not have curly hair. In fact, it began departing.

I was full of cholesterol. (But did not know it until I read it in the magazine.)

The toast had charcoaled edges. I read in the magazine:

"Scientists at Michigan

State College fed charcoal to a group of selected rats." (Selected for what? Well you may ask. Selected for murder, that's what!)

The rats ate charcoal. And they died like rats. I spent my youth getting full of the stuff.

"Doctor is ready now," she said. "Ah, yes, but am I ready?" I thought.

Keep your eye on the bluebird. The magazine in the outer office declares: "Chloxin, a relative of the thyroid hormone, lowers cholesterol levels without side effects."

This means you can pig it up on butter, and the cholesterol sort of melts away.

"Side effects" — (which it is without) — is when you take a drug to melt away cholesterol only it melts you away, too. Usually they say "undesirable side effects."

A desirable side effect would be like an olive in the martini.

The point of this is that wives can no longer scrag their husbands by stuffing them with butter.

We have no statistics on this. When a wife gets out the old Colt and root-te-toot-toot, we have a record. But the slow buttered toast job never gets on the books.

Now the cat can eat toast buttered on both sides if he likes.

He catches the commute train for the office and bangs in a chloxin pill.

"Ha, ha. Missed again." It is better than a suit of armor.

Heaven knows what I was doing to myself in youthful days when I was being stuffed with butter. Dripping with saturated fats.

"Eat your ham and eggs," said grandma. "A hearty breakfast is the best medicine."

Now we know that ham and eggs can drop you on your prime.

Charcoal can pop you off like a rat.

All of which I wouldn't have known if Doctor had been ready a little earlier. Before I read the magazine and got all the symptoms.

Nebraskan Wins National Grange Sewing Contest

Beaver Crossing — Mrs. Max Eberspacher of Beaver Crossing has been named winner of the National Grange sewing contest.

Mr. and Mrs. Eberspacher will be awarded a trip to Bermuda for the national award won by the cotton dress entered in the contest, in addition to a number of other prizes that annually go with the national contest sponsored by the Grange and the National Cotton Council.

The Eberspachers, members of the Goehner Grange, also won a $100 Savings Bond for their local Grange.

In the youth division of the contest the first honorable mention went to Ora Lea Filippi of Western.

Albert Ebers of Seward, state Grange Master, noted this is the second national win for Nebraska Grange members this year with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Holstein of Blair winning the National Grange Couple of the Year award.

People who love to drive love the Corvair

Here's what David E. Davis, Jr.,
Publisher, Car & Driver Magazine, says:

David E. Davis, Jr.

"I guess I've been hooked on Corvair ever since 1959, when Chevrolet first introduced the car. It was a neat, quick little car, and it really turned me on, because, for the first time, the car enthusiasts of this country had a car that was really fun to drive—and there were reasons for that.

"For one thing, the car handled. People who tried the Corvair for the first time discovered a whole new feeling in automobiles. It was a responsive car that turned when you wanted it to turn, and went where you wanted it to go, and when you wanted it to stop, it stopped right now.

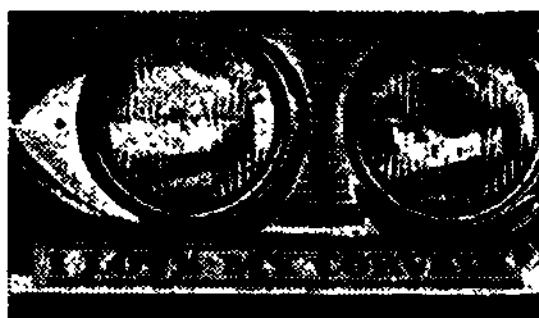

"It's been proved again and again that putting the engine in the rear, over the driving wheels, has some definite advantages. And when you combine that with Corvair's independent rear suspension, it results in a kind of magic ingredient that sets the car well apart from the rest.

"The Corvair is the kind of car that has the unique ability to make your driving better and more skillful, a happy blend of spirit and good design and first-class handling characteristics.

"It's the kind of car that's fun to drive to work in the morning. Seriously, anybody who's never taken a test-drive in a Corvair really ought to give it a try. It's a son of a gun!"

There's not much we can add to what Mr. Davis has said. Except, perhaps, to tell you your Chevrolet dealer has some mighty thrilling proof waiting to show you. Like a test drive in a '66 Corvair. Just as soon as you can make it. (Tell him David E. Davis, of Car & Driver Magazine, sent you.)

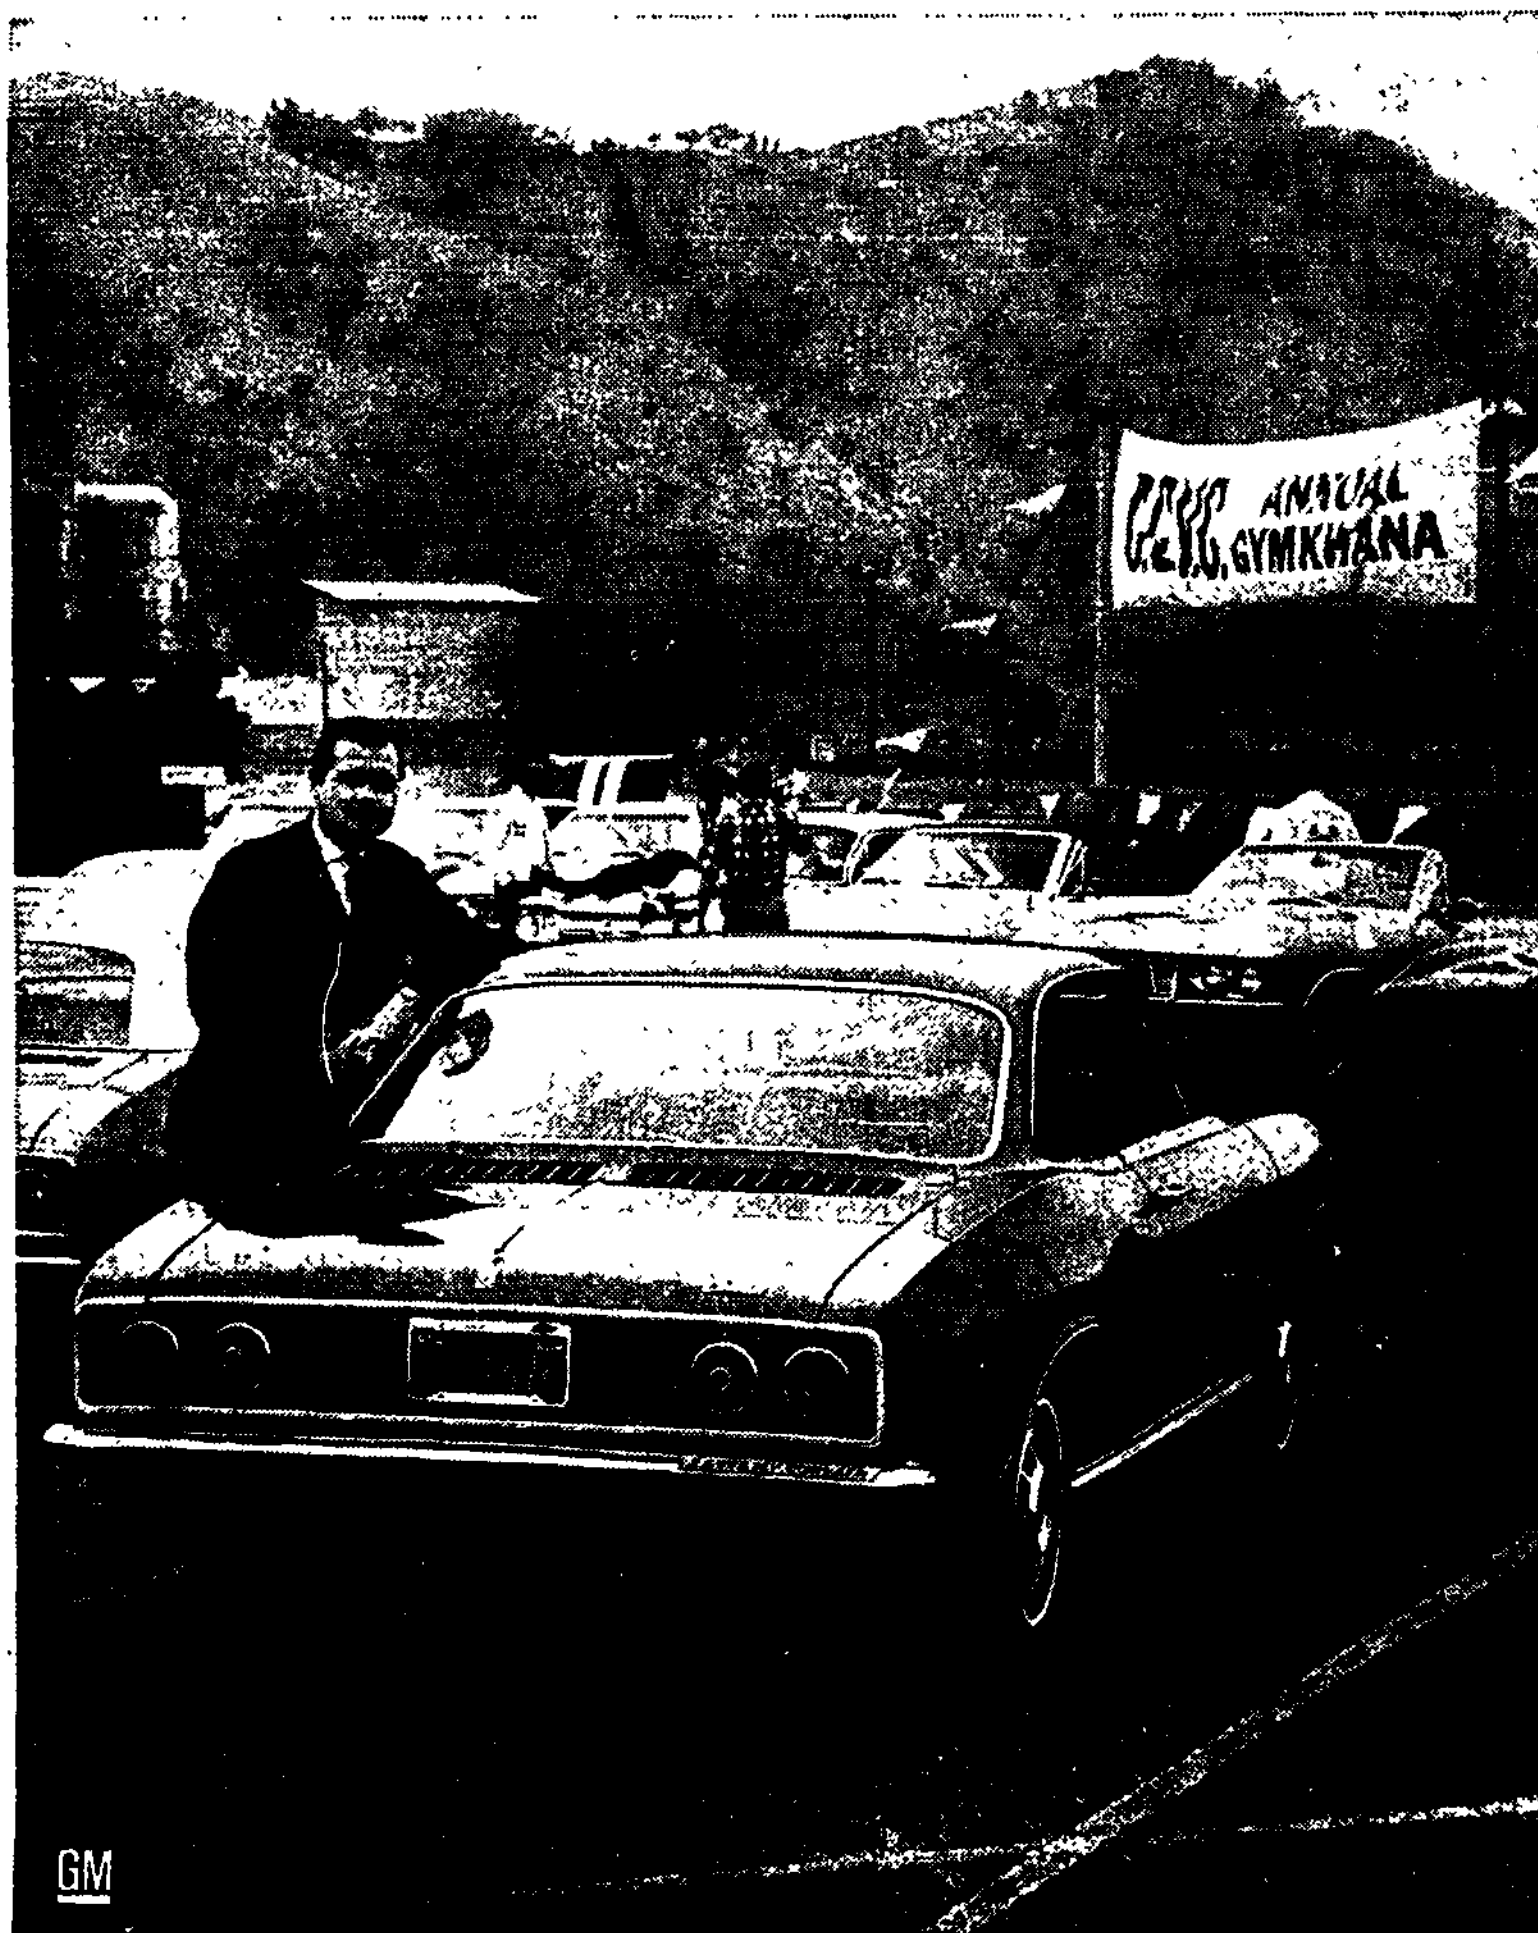

YOU'LL LIKE IT SO MUCH YOU MAY WANT TO BUY ANOTHER IN '67
